

Chapter 2347

Christian knew he had already won a hundred and forty million dollars with ease. Together with the three hundred million that Edwin owed, he firmly believed that Yoana would be under his control after just one more win...

Perhaps, Christian might even control Paul Mendoza himself!

At this moment, Christian was extremely confident. He stopped stalling and flipped his cards on the table, smiling warmly.

“A pair of kings and aces!”

“Show us your hand, Lady Mendoza.”

“If you don’t have a Straight Flush, you lose.”

Yoana looked at her cards, snickering. She then flipped them open.

“Ten, jack, queen, king, ace.”

“Royal Flush. I won!”

Yoana took her check back, emotionless.

She had achieved the best possible hand to win the round.

The extremely confident Christian’s expression changed frantically. He froze, stunned.

“How is this possible?”

Edwin froze at the sight.

“I’ve won this round. Together with the chips on the table and your three hundred million dollars, I’ve earned a total of six hundred million dollars!”

“Counting out the three hundred million dollars that my little brother owes, I’ll be taking away the other half.”

“I’ll use the chips on the table to pay off the debt, and I’ll be taking away the check. Is that fine with you?”

Yoana stood up haughtily and turned away immediately after, not bothering to spare Christian another glance.

Edwin got over his shock, now ecstatic.

As expected, his sister was incredible! She seemed so close to losing everything, but then won it all back and paid off his debt in one go. Not to mention, she also brought an extra three hundred million dollars home.

The bewildered Christian came back to his senses just as Yoana and Edwin were leaving. He glared at Yoana, his face grim.

“Ms. Mendoza! Did you cheat?!”

“Cheat?! ”

Yoana turned back swiftly, her face so cold it could freeze hell itself.

“Stop being such a sore loser, Christian!”

“Are you insulting everyone’s intelligence with that accusation, or are you questioning your own abysmal one?!”

“Isn’t St. Hope well-known for being fair and square? Didn’t you claim that no one has a chance to cheat here?!”

“If you think I cheated, then why don’t you show us proof?!”

“If there’s proof, fine! I’ll return you the money and stay here.”

“But if not, then you’ll have to gouge your eyes out right before me! Dare you make that deal with me, Christian?!”

Christian froze at Yoana’s threats, somewhat taken aback.

He didn't expect her to be this imposing!

Everyone else on the table exchanged wary glances, thinking that Yoana wouldn't cheat.

Yoana leveled a cold glare at Christian, before waving her hand dismissively and leaving with Edwin.

She was here to suppress the Hamilton family and pay Edwin's debt.

Yoana wasn't stupid. With how the Hamilton family had brought up Edwin's IOU so suddenly, she knew that they were targeting her family.

Following Las Vegas's rules, everything that happened on the gambling table must be solved on the gambling table.

Since Edwin's debt was already paid, nobody would dare use the matter to provoke the Mendozas any further.

Now that Yoana had gained the advantage, she couldn't be bothered to play with that despicable man any further.

“Are you looking down on the Hamiltons, Lady Mendoza?!”

“If I said that you cheated, then you cheated!”

Christian snarled furiously, glaring daggers at the high and mighty Yoana. He stormed forward and snapped his fingers.

Chapter 2348

“Of course you cheated! I have proof right here!”

Christian flashed Yoana a smug look as he reached under her chest. Yoana was caught off guard, her expression awful, when he suddenly pulled out an ace of spades out of her tube top.

Before she could come to her senses and shove him away, he pulled an ace of hearts.

Following that was an ace of diamonds, and then, an ace of clubs...

Card after card scattered to the ground as Christian pulled them out.

Everyone gasped at the sight.

“What?!”

“She’s actually cheating on St. Hope?!”

“She’s so shameless!”

“No, no...! She’s playing with fire!”

The crowd was shocked. They didn’t think that Yoana would actually cheat!

Yoana, however, narrowed her eyes in silent anger. She never had the cards in the first place. It was Christian who pulled the cards out of nowhere.

Judging from this, it was apparent that not only was Christian quite proficient in gambling, but he was also quick-witted enough to frame Yoana.

After seeing Yoana’s horrible look on her face, Christian clapped joyfully.

“Now what, Lady Mendoza? With the evidence, aren’t you supposed to give me the money back and stay here?”

Yoana laughed, though the sound was devoid of any humor.

“Are you braindead, Christian?”

“You think you can just slander me with your gambling skills?!”

“Did you forget what I do for a living?!”

“Show the footage if you’re saying that I cheated! We’ll watch the entire thing in full!”

“If there’s proof in the footage, then according to the rules here, I’ll chop my hand!”

“If there’s no proof, that means you’re slandering me! After you gouge your eyes out, I want your hands chopped as well!”

“Do you dare?!”

Yoana then shot a glare at the staff not far away from her.

“As the Las Vegas Police Station’s second-incommand, I order you to show us the surveillance footage!”

The staff was about to move as told, but Christian clapped again. The smile on his face was still there, and he looked unperturbed.

“I think you’re the one who’s braindead, Lady Mendoza.”

“The second-in-command of Las Vegas Police Station should know that we’re in open seas right now!”

“Your pathetic authority has no use here!”

“I am the law here!”

“If I said that you cheated, then you cheated! I am proof, and this is the evidence!”

“In any case, you have only two choices tonight!”

“Number one, leave the chips and your check, then break both your arms as punishment!”

“Number two, I’ll pay off Edwin’s debt for you, but you have to accompany me for one night.”

“I’ll record the entire thing to commemorate our hard-won love, though!”

“How does that sound?”

Christian lit up his cigar, and then blew out a huff of smoke in Yoana’s face.

“The choice is yours.”

His plan was simple. He planned to lure Yoana here with Edwin’s IOU from years ago so he could take control of her.

If he succeeded, Las Vegas’s first-in-command would’ve turned into a puppet for the Hamilton family.

At the same time, he would avenge Dennis.

With all that at stake, why would Christian let Yoana turn the tables?

He would take his money back, and he would also take advantage of the situation in order to control Yoana along with the entire Mendoza family.

<https://t.me/HarveyYorkEnglish>

Chapter 2349

Christian blew another huff of smoke, squinting meaningfully at Yoana.

“Well, Lady Mendoza? Have you made your decision?”

“If you can’t decide, why don’t I do it for you?”

Yoana laughed again, just as coldly.

“Is your brain giving up on you, or did you drink a little too much?”

“Should everyone believe you just because you said so? Should I listen to you just because you said you want to punish me?”

“You think St. Hope is your home?”

“You’re bragging a little too much about your family being kings, to the point you think you’re actually the king of the family!”

“You want me to accompany you for a single night? Why don’t you take a look in the mirror first?”

Christian burst out laughing.

“There’s something you don’t know, Lady Mendoza. I may not own St. Hope...”

“But I do own thirty percent of the shares!”

“My words might not mean anything in Las Vegas, but in St. Hope, I am law!”

“It’d be best if you put everything down and get over here!”

“If you don’t, I’ll cripple your little brother’s hands and make him watch as I humiliate you!”

“I think that’d make for a great show!”

Christian clapped, and the bodyguards behind him instantly pounced forward.

Several headed right for Edwin, wanting to capture him. Another few went for Yana.

“Stay back!”

Before they managed to get close, Edwin swung his right palm and sent two of them flying.

One of them coughed out blood as he slammed on the ground. It was a wretched sight.

“Oh my! I heard Young Master Mendoza got enlisted in the Sword Camp before, and that he came out with the strength of a King of Arms!”

“I didn’t believe it then, but I didn’t think you’d show off your strength now either!”

“Looks like I’ll have to get myself enlisted too!”

Christian looked at Edwin with an interested gaze, unperturbed by Edwin’s fighting skills.

“A shame that this is my turf. Forget a King of Arms, it'll be useless even if a God of War shows up!"

"There's no way out for you two!"

As Christian spoke, a dozen more foreign bodyguards marched inside the VIP guest room.

Every single one of them had firearms with safeties off. They could pull the trigger at any time.

The gamblers, dealer, and staff ran scurried off to a corner without saying a word.

This was none of their business, after all. Who would stand up for the Mendoza siblings at this point?

Several women sighed as they looked at Yoana.

'She's being so cold and arrogant. She's dead for sure...'

'The Second Young Master will stop at nothing to get her!’

“You really are shameless, Christian!”

“All that reputation gained from the King of Gambling himself, thrown away in your very generation!”

“I can’t believe the family that thrived in the gambling industry would actually do something like this! Are you planning to throw away your family’s casino badge?! Are you giving up on your family’s casino-palace, Christian?!”

Yoana’s expression was as cold as ice. She stood her ground with fierce determination, unyielding. She thought the family specializing in the gambling industry would do everything by the books, at least based on the underworld’s rules.

It seemed she was a little too naive!

Chapter 2350

“Of course my family will abide by the law! We’re doing business here, so we need everyone’s support!”

“My family will continue to hold a casino badge and keep our casino-palace open.”

“That’s why I should uphold justice as best as I can!”

“As such, I won’t let you off the hook for cheating in my turf!”

Christian slammed his hands on the table.

“If I don’t take control of the situation and enforce the law now, who would dare play in my turf later on?!” he exclaimed righteously.

“Cheaters aren’t allowed to take away my family’s money!”

“Either do as I say, or I let my bodyguards do their thing!”

“We’ll see if your little brother’s better than my bodyguards’ guns!”

Christian flashed them a gleeful smile as he fiddled with two chips, as smug as ever. He seemed quite calm, but was in fact exuding a dark aura of unspeakable malice.

“You’re lawless, Christian! You’re distorting the truth!”

Yoana glared daggers at him, eyes burning with a cold flame.

“You think you call the shots here?”

“Can you even bear the responsibility for causing this much trouble?!”

Christian smirked, looking proud and righteous.

“I know I’m not in charge of the place, and neither is the Hamilton family.”

“You have many powerful figures supporting the Mendoza family as well. It’s impressive, really!”

“But, so what?!”

“You should know that Young Lord York from Hong Kong is supporting my family!”

“With his backing, nobody in Hong Kong or Las Vegas can go against me!”

“No one’s going to oppose me if I say that I’m the law here, are they?!”

Christian’s face was filled with repulsive arrogance. His claim shocked Yoana and Edwin, whose expressions turned grim as they listened to him. Their hearts sank as many thoughts flashed in their mind.

‘We’re finished!’

‘So Christian isn’t the only one behind this!’

‘Vince York is involved, too!’

“Excuse me! I object!”

A cold voice suddenly rang from outside the entrance at this very moment. Soon after the gun-wielding bodyguards were immediately sent flying.

Slap!

Without giving anyone a chance to react, Harvey took a step forward and slapped Christian so hard that the latter collapsed to the ground.

“You call yourself the law here, but this is all you can do?”

“Are you even worthy?”

Bang!

Christian's head slammed to the ground, and his head began to bleed.

Harvey showed up in such an imposing manner that suppressed the entire crowd as soon upon his appearance

Everyone was shocked.

Yoana was taken by surprise. She was perplexed. She never imagined that Harvey would show up and injure a powerful man like Christian without hesitation.

Edwin was exhilarated. Since CEO York himself showed up, everything would go smoothly!

Christian, on the other hand, was frozen stiff. He couldn't even come to his senses as he touched the palm print and blood on his face.

The gamblers and the dealer were all dumbfounded. They rubbed their eyes desperately, unable to believe their eyes.

Nobody expected a random person to simply barge in and slap Christian to the ground!

Something bad was about to happen!

<https://t.me/HarveyYorkEnglish>