

Chapter 3930

Harvey York sighed secretly. No wonder the secretary was being toyed around like this.

Not a single man in the world could resist such a young and innocent-looking woman, after all.

After sizing up the secretary, Harvey replied, "You are...?"

"My name's Harper Klein," replied the secretary shyly.

Harvey nodded.

"Right. Who was the one who said those shameless things to you again?"

Harper hesitated for a moment.

"He's the man in charge of the approval registration, Rico Padlow. He lives here.

"It's said that he belongs to the same family in charge of the Blackburn City Martial Arts Alliance. That's why he's been acting so high and mighty in front of everyone.

"I heard that the people who come to register, especially the women from abroad, would have a hard time because of him!

"The men lose their money while the women lose their bodies..."

Harper was filled with worry and fear.

She wanted to do an excellent job with Harvey's task...

But she could not accept that she needed to give her body just to do something like this. She had never even been in love before.

“So, you’re saying he’s part of the Padlow family...

Harvey smiled.

“No wonder he can afford to act like that.

“Come. Take me to him. I want to see just how arrogant he really is.”

Harper wanted to convince Harvey, but after seeing the determined look on his face, she could only lead him into the registration hall with a worried expression.

After taking an appointment number plate, Harper took Harvey to an office on the second floor.

Harper carefully knocked on the door, but instead of someone answering the door, a woman’s delicate voice could be heard.

Harper’s face flushed before she knocked on the door again, but no one answered.

Soon after, Harvey calmly kicked the door open.

The office was not as big. There were only a hundred square feet of space. A man and a woman were sitting on top of the office table.

The man looked like he was in his thirties. He had a bald head, a round face, and a pair of glasses. His pale and intoxicated expression could clearly be seen at that moment.

The woman was clearly not a worker here. She came to do business.

She was beautifully dressed with a charming look

The man was already moving his hands around the woman’s body when Harvey kicked the door open.

He was probably the person in charge of the registration approval.

He was immediately scared off when Harvey barged in. He could not help but scream at him at that moment.

“Who are you people?! Who let you in here?!”

“I’m sorry, Chief Padlow. The wind blew the door open,” exclaimed Harper shyly.

She was naturally afraid of going against Rico.

“I’m sorry for bothering you!

Harper quickly put a letter on the table with her bright red face.

“Here’s a small gift!”

“What’s the meaning of this?”

Rico looked at the letter before disdainfully chucking at Harper’s face.

“Enough of this!” he coldly exclaimed.

“I already told you this morning!

“I have enough money already! I want women!

“You want to register the Silver Elixir or whatever?!”

“Fine! There’s no problem at all!

“Just stay and give me a good time! I’ll consider registering it for you tomorrow!

“But if you can’t do that, you’ll have to get the legal representative, Katy Cobb, here to accompany me too! You understand me?!” 2
