

Chapter 714

"Honey, how can you believe in dreams? Dreams are always the invert of reality." Chuck was startled. Why would Yvette have such a dream?

Could Chadrick be right? Was he really going to marry Adriana?

Chuck shuddered at the thought. He asked, "Well, who am I married to in your dream?"

"I wasn't able to see clearly. It wasn't me anyway." Yvette shook her head and continued to fix Chuck's tie.

Yvette knew that with her relationship with Karen, she would never be able to marry Chuck. This was something she couldn't change.

She stayed with Chuck because she didn't want to leave, despite knowing that nothing could ever happen between them. She just couldn't bear to leave him.

Yvette couldn't help herself. She only felt at ease when she slept in Chuck's arms.

"It will be you, for sure!" Chuck said seriously.

"No, it won't."

Yvette hugged Chuck gently and listened to his heartbeat, "I will marry you. I have been wanting to since I was a little girl. But the reality is that it's impossible. Because one day eventually, I would have to fight your mother to death. This is inevitable!"

Chuck sighed. Yes, the reality was that Karen and Yvette were enemies. How could he marry Yvette?

Chuck wasn't sure either.

"This is why I don't want to think about the future. I only want to think about the present because we will not have a future! Do you understand?" Yvette said softly.

"Yes, but..."

Yvette reached out to cover Chuck's mouth, "I know,"

Chuck didn't say anything else.

After fixing up Chuck's suit, they headed out. Karen was unavailable, so she would be absent from the opening ceremony that day. Chuck, Yvette, Willa and Black Rose would be there together.

Willa also wore a gown that day. The gown enhanced her perfect figure, and she looked enchanting.

She and Yvette dressed up in their own special way. Willa was elegant while Yvette looked noble.

Each had their own uniqueness.

Black Rose's dress was not fancy. She donned the same thing as usual which was fitting because she wasn't there for the opening ceremony; she was there to protect Chuck.

However, Chuck had also wanted to see what Black Rose looked like in a gown. After all, she did have a perfect figure.

She would probably end up with her gown torn.

With Black Rose's personality, there really wasn't much hope for her.

Chuck didn't let his imagination run wild. Everyone was there earlier so that they could prep in advance.

The opening ceremony had to be a great success!

When they arrived at the casino, they saw that it was decorated based on Chuck's initial business opening at his home country. There were a lot of people there to support them, so the casino was very crowded.

For the past few days, Betty had promoted and advertised it as the largest casino in the United States!

This gimmick was great, and those who were usually into gambling would definitely be there. The huge parking space was occupied with all kinds of luxury cars. Even the airfield for high-end customers was occupied by several private jets.

Everybody who came was rich!

Chuck was very satisfied. He predicted that the casino would make a lot of profit every month. Patricia estimated that they would make at least a billion a month.

The bigger the game, the more profits they would make.

The casino was well equipped with other entertainment facilities and leisure areas. They garner profits from non-gamblers who would spend in these places.

Chuck didn't need to do anything else. All he needed to do was to leave it to Patricia.

She was capable of managing the casino.

When Patricia felt that everything was on track and operations were running smoothly, Chuck would then open another one.

In that way, Chuck's business empire would expand.

Patricia was the center of attention that day at the casino as she was top management.

The luxurious dress wrapped around her figure perfectly, as if she was born to wear it.

Although her figure was not as great as Yvette and Willa's, she did have her own characteristics and a unique kind of beauty.

"Chuck." Patricia saw Chuck and hurried over.

"Don't worry about me. Please go about your business. I am just here to have a look." With Chuck's low profile personality, he did not want others to know that he was the boss of the casino.

It was not necessary.

"Okay." Patricia nodded.

Patricia then went about with her duties. However, she couldn't help but notice that Chuck looked very dashing in his suit! He looked royally handsome and she couldn't help but take a few more glances at him.

When she came to her senses, she was astonished. Why was she suddenly so into good-looking men?

"By the way, many celebrities from the US are here today, including a celebrity who likes gambling. They are all movie stars and they are at the back there now. Would you like to take some pictures with them?"

"Take pictures?" Chuck wasn't into celebrities anymore and only wanted to expand his own business empire.

However, Chuck liked watching movies previously when he was in the United States. He also knew many movie stars in the United States. He remembered that there were few actresses who were particularly beautiful.

Things were different for him these days. He was impressed with himself about how he was still able to invite those movie stars over to his casino.

"A couple of pretty ladies asked me who my boss was. I didn't tell them. You may want to get to know them." Patricia knew what Chuck was thinking about.

But Chuck had no interest in them. With Yvette and Willa by his side, how could he possibly want to know anyone else? There was no point at all!

"That's not necessary. Just go and do your work." Chuck replied.

"Alright, as you wish."

Patricia smiled and went back to work. For some reason, she was very happy to hear Chuck saying that he didn't want to meet the ladies.

At least Chuck was not a lecher. If other men had the same opportunity to meet the actresses, they definitely would not pass it up.

The casino was full of people. The croupiers, waiters and managers were being reassigned directly from Karen's side, and they were all professionals. Many people exchanged money for tokens to gamble.

With the sound of tokens clashing into one another, he knew he had earned his money. Chuck was overjoyed to see that there were so many people around. He had also told Patricia to start training their own people because they couldn't keep asking Karen for help.

"Oh, what's that?"

Suddenly, there was a commotion outside. Many people went out to have a look, including Chuck, Yvette, Willa and Black Rose.

"What is this? It looks like the Lawrence family!"

"Does the casino owner know the Lawrence family?"

"No wonder. Even the floor is covered in gold. He's rich!"

Everyone was in a heated discussion. There was a big opening ceremony gift from the Lawrence family!¹⁶

Chapter 715

Chuck saw that it was Elise who had sent over a cannon. It was a gift of goodwill from the Lawrence family.

The ancient cannon was placed in the middle of the lobby, looking striking and spectacular.

The Lawrence family crest was imprinted on the cannon. It was as though this was a message sent to the people informing and remind them they should stay out of trouble.

However, Sophia was not there. Well, it was not appropriate for Sophia to make an appearance at that kind of occasion anyway. It would not be good for Chuck and Sophia if their relationship was exposed.

Sophia was right to do so.

"Chuck, it looks like you have made amends with the Lawrence family," Willa said with a smile.

Yvette was also relieved. Chuck and Elise used to be enemies, but not only had they been collaborating with each other recently, but Elise was now delivering a gift to him personally. This was something that Yvette had never expected.

Chuck felt awkward. How could he explain it? Should he say that he and Sophia had a relationship that they should not have?

But if Chuck came clean, Yvette and Willa would definitely be shocked by this.

Chuck just kept silent with a smile on his face. He told himself that this was just Elise delivering a gift on behalf of the Lawrence family.

This was something no one had expected to see at the casino's grand opening. Everyone immediately started discussing who the casino owner was. They all speculated that there was some kind of relationship between the casino owner and the Lawrence family.

"Does this casino belong to the Lawrence family?"

"Who knows! But I don't think it is. The boss is someone else."

"Why do you think so?"

"The Lawrence family doesn't like foreigners very much!"

"Are you sure?"

"Yes! Didn't you notice that the manager is a foreigner? So, I think it's someone else!"

"Oh, I see!"

Everyone was busy discussing and speculating amongst themselves.

Elise instructed her men to set the gift up nicely. When she saw Chuck, she walked up to him as the crowd stared on.

"What? Why is she walking towards that man?"

"Is this guy the owner? But this is the largest casino in this country! That's impossible!"

"Totally. I'm pretty sure the guy is just someone Elise knows, so she's just there to greet him."

"Exactly."

"Congratulations." Elise said.

Elise was dressed in a gown that hugged onto her figure at all the right places. She looked stunningly gorgeous.

Chuck thought that she looked great and it was a breath of fresh air.

Elise liked martial arts and sports which helped her tone her body and keep herself in shape. Although she was hardly built like Black Rose, she still looked pretty darn good.

"Thank you. We have some finger food prepared, please help yourself." Chuck showed her a heightened level of courtesy. After all, she was Sophia's daughter.

"I'm not here for the food. There aren't any delicacies that I haven't already tasted." Elise curled her lip and replied.

She knew that it was Chuck's casino's grand opening, so she came over to see him.

"Then what are you doing here?" Chuck asked.

"For no specific reason. By the way, when are you free?" Elise smiled and asked.

"Why?"

"I've learned a new combat skill, so we should spar sometime. Let's hit it out soon! I must defeat you."

"If you want to win, I'll let you." Chuck had no interest in fighting with her, but here she was insisting that they do.

Furthermore, he would get himself into hot water if he ended up hurting Elise. Thus, it was better for him not to oblige to Elise's request.

"I don't want you to let me win! I want to defeat you in a battle. You'll then see me differently. You know, I'm actually a good person." Elise's voice softened.

Chuck was taken aback. Why would Elise want him to see her differently?

Had she gone crazy because of all the training she did?

Chuck ignored her and patted her on the shoulder, "Go get some food."

"Don't push me! Dang it!"

Elise was angry. She had come all the way here, so she definitely wanted to speak to Chuck a little longer.

"Who's the boss? Where is the boss of this casino?"
Someone suddenly shouted.

All of a sudden, the room went completely silent.

Chuck looked over and saw that it was a man in his forties.

He looked arrogant!

His sudden remark had caused people to start gossiping again.

"This person likes gambling and he's rich. Ignore him."
Elise took a look and said.

Yvette, Willa and Black Rose had different opinions on the matter.

"Hubby, let's go over and take a look," Yvette suggested.

"Chuck, this man is causing trouble. You may want to do something about it!" Willa said as well.

Chuck wanted to take action too. It was only his casino's first day of operations and he already had trouble like this. If he could not handle it well that day, then what would happen in the future?

He needed to make a point by punishing this man.

"Let's see what's going on." Chuck said and went over with the others.

Elise got mad and said, "I've told you to ignore him, yet you still want to go there? Can't you talk to me instead? I came all the way here..."

"Where is your boss? Why are you so arrogant? Don't you know that the customer is king?"

Matthias White slammed his fist on the table. His anger-filled voice caused a disturbance at the casino, resulting in the other customers not be able to truly enjoy themselves.

"Sir, what can I do for you? I'm the manager here." Patricia went over with a smile.

"Manager? You are not qualified to talk to me. Call your boss over!" Matthias shouted into her face.

Patricia frowned. Since the customer insisted, she could only glance at Chuck.

The customer insisted on seeing the boss, and not her.

"I'm the owner. What can I do for you?"

Chuck took a step forward as he said this.,

Patricia heaved a sigh of relief.

"What? This guy is the owner? Seriously?"

"He has already said it. It's true!"

"I really can't tell at all. Looks like the younger generation is really capable. They are really outshining the older generation. He is so young, and he already owns the biggest casino. How unpredictable our future will be!"

Everyone was surprised. They didn't expect that Chuck, who was the first person to talk to Elise a while ago, to be the owner of the casino!

"Are you the boss?" Matthias questioned.

"Yes, is something the matter?"

"Look at you. How could you be the boss? Where is your boss? Is he hiding somewhere?" Matthias sneered, "He really shouldn't get someone to speak on his behalf."

"Never judge a book by its cover. So, what's the matter?"

Chuck looked him straight in the eye, expression unchanged.

"Well, since you say you are the boss, then let's play a game. Do you dare?" Matthias sneered.

"Why wouldn't I? I own this casino." Chuck smiled slightly.

"That's what you claim. I'm someone who's into big bets. Let's start with five billion dollars. Are you game?" Matthias smiled arrogantly. It wasn't an amount that just anyone would dare bet on.

Matthias was an expert in gambling, and he was out to win some money.

"Five billion only? That's too low. Let's do ten billion." Chuck suggested unhesitatingly.
