

Chapter 510 A Wily Girl

The venue fell into a silence. Daisy clenched her jaw and looked pale. As all eyes were on her, she experienced mixed emotions. She could tell from their gaze that they were looking down at her.

“We’re not leaving. I’m not leaving!” Tang E was furious. He was, after all, a hot-blooded eighteen-year-old who did not know how to take a step back and to reflect on himself. At that moment, it looked like he was making a scene.

“Come get them!” Mr. Audley yelled loudly. Around ten bodyguards walked in from the outside of the hall and were staring threateningly at Daisy and Tang E.

“Mr. Audley...” Daisy’s face was turned pale. She looked at Tang Yin and said in a trembling voice, "I will apologize for my unreasonable demands just now. I wish to also apologize to Mr. Tang Yin for my foolish behavior and hope that he could forgive me. I know how ignorant my actions were. I could only hope that everyone does not take it seriously and continue with the debutante ball!"

Did she just surrender? The guests all shifted their gaze to Tang Yin as if waiting for his answer. What a wily girl! How could she have endured this humiliation and apologized to Tang Yin on the spot?

Tang Yin looked at Daisy with a meaningful gaze and nodded with a gentle smile. "If so, I will accept your apology!”

Mr. Audley was taken aback by the change in attitude. He shot Tang Yin a look full of questions.

Nevertheless, Tang Yin only shrugged indifferently. “Does Miss Daisy still need a change in her partner?”

“No need for that!” Daisy mumbled with her head lowered.

Tang Yin smiled again and thought to himself that Daisy was more shrewd than her Aunt Pedesi. He had to give her credit for having the flexibility to change her attitude at her young age.

“If that’s the case, we shall continue with the ball...” Mr. Audley hurriedly announced.

Upon hearing that, Daisy let out a small sigh and turned to walk downstairs. She wore an intricate long dress that showcased her attractive curves. Her blond hair was tied into a bun behind and made her look enchanting.

Tang Yi stood still for Daisy to walk to him. He reached out for her left hand with his right hand. The two looked like a perfect couple standing together but everyone knew that their harmony was only for show. Deep down in their hearts, they must have been attempting to outwit the other.

Tang Yin apparently was not too hung up on that and he politely invited Daisy to take a seat at the middle of the hall and proceeded to sit beside her.

“Tang Yin, I really did not expect Mr. Audley to be this accommodating to you.” Daisy looked calm on the surface but her voice was full of vengeance.

Tang Yin laughed gently at her remark and asked her, “Why? Are you that surprised?”

“You’re trash. Sooner or later, I will show everyone your true colors!” Daisy replied coldly.

However, Tang Yin still greeted her with a smile. Right then, the couple chosen by the randomized spotlights were about to go up the stage. It was Henley and Nia! Finally, the ball had produced a couple who looked great beside each other.

The couples who were subsequently chosen came downstairs and sat on the rows of chairs lined on both sides of the hall.

“For today’s first dance... We have decided to randomize the selection of the leading couple.” Mr. Audley went to the center of the hall and made a gesture with a smile. Music rang out across the hall.

The beams of spotlight appeared once more and shone around the guests.

Swoosh... When the beams of light stopped, everyone was stunned by the selection. Tang Yin and Daisy?

The guests were not expecting the dramatic unfolding of events that was eerily intriguing.

Tang Yin stood up with a smile and gestured toward Daisy to invite her for the dance. With an icy expression, she reached out and put her hand on Tang Yin's palm. Both of them then slowly inched toward the center of the hall.

Usually, the host would lead the first dance at a ball before the guests started inviting each other to follow suit. Anyway, it was a debutante ball for which actual modifications had been done to allow for randomization.

At the moment, the guests' curious eyes were on Tang Yin who led Daisy up to the stage.

“How unlucky am I to dance the first dance with you,” Daisy snorted while walking.

“Same goes for me. I feel that I could almost throw up my dinner tonight. After all, the other ladies on the floor are much better-looking. You can’t compare with them, be it your family background, figure and looks.” Tang Yin flashed a smile at her and instantly commented, “There is no need to hold a debutante ball next year. I will discuss this with Mr. Audley later. If they accept ladies like you to the ball, I have no expectations at all for next year’s ball.”

“You...” Daisy’s eyes were engulfed in flames of fury. The music started at that moment, so Tang Yin took a step forward and swiftly reached out his arms to gracefully pull Daisy into his embrace.

“Ahh!” Daisy gasped audibly but thankfully her exclaim was drowned by the loud music.

Tang Yin smiled. “You’re really... disappointing.”

Daisy could only bite her lower lip and tremble at Tang Yin’s remark. His expression showed his disdain and disgust as he pushed Daisy out before the two immediately started to dance with each other.

After the first dance ended, Tang Yin remained composed but Daisy felt like her body was falling apart from the exhaustion. Her two legs trembled as she walked. Tang Yin's great force was not something that she could handle.

The pair sat down before the music started again. After the first dance, the other couples could now dance with their partners on the floor.

"I need to go to the washroom," Daisy said. Not caring about Tang Yin's response, her heels started clicking all the way toward the washroom. He sat there smirking but did not care much about her movements.

Daisy stumbled to the washroom with her wobbly legs and swiftly took out her phone from her bag to call her aunt. "I can't stand that rude trash! I need someone to save me from here!"

“Daisy...” Pedesi imparted her good-willed advice, “You have to remember your mission for tonight! Tang Yin has filed for bankruptcy while the union is protesting against him. If you could create a scandal for him now, we could break him down! I know about your sacrifices tonight, but I hope that you could consider how to make him land on our trap!”

“But I have had enough!” Daisy bellowed.

“I know. However, you are halfway to success now. You must put in the effort to embroil him into the murder scandal so that we can have the chance to send him for police interrogation,” Pedesi said with beguilement.
