Louis did not expect to get kicked out like that. He fell to the ground and glared at Ohashi Miki in anger. “Do you know what you are doing?!”

Ohashi Miki’s eyes were filled with murderous intent.

Ji Youyou panicked. She wanted to go forward to help Louis up, but the thought of him clinging onto her again just made her open the car door. She then went inside the backseat, lowering her head.

Ohashi Miki glared at Louis coldly before opening the door to the driving seat. Then, she turned around and warned, “If you harass my Young Lady again, I’ll make sure that you die!”

“You’re so rude... Do you even know what you’ve done? Attacking a gentleman just exposed how much of a low life you are!” Louis staggered to get up and tried to argue.

However, Ohashi Miki had already driven away as they rushed toward the charity foundation’s building.

Ji Youyou who was in the car didn’t look like she was in a good mood. However, she couldn’t be bothered by Louis as she felt that what Louis did was way worse than Ohashi Miki.

A gentleman should know how to respect their female counterpart. It would be an act of pretension if the man still clung to other women.

Louis kicked the flowers that he bought in anger as he watched Ji Youyou's car drive away. He took his phone out in a huff and contacted Maria. "Miss Vice President, I need to report that Ji Youyou is actually... a very rude person!"

"You didn't manage to attract her attention?" Maria asked in a surprised tone. "This is not about her attention. She has these bodyguards that follow her around..." Louis fumed, "All of these bodyguards are very rude so I'm hoping that you can give me some support so that I can get to know Ji Youyou better!"

"Alright. No problem!" Maria replied, "I'll get you better bodyguards tonight!"

"Alright!" Louis nodded and hung up before cursing something and turned around to walk toward his car.

After reaching the charity foundation's building, Louis ran into Mia who was carrying a stack of files when he entered the office.

Mia's gaze swiped past Louis with a hint of judgment and disdain. "It looks like my Prince Charming failed this time, huh?"

"Mia, you better shut up!" Louis knocked her off.

"Shut up? I don't see you wanting me to shut up when you're in my bed yesterday night!" Mia taunted.

Louis was really pissed off now. He stopped walking and turned around to face Mia. “Mia, you better not mention yesterday night in front of me! I’m telling you now that not everything is as easy as you thought!”

“Oh? So Ji Youyou did not snatch my Prince Charming away from me?” Mia’s begrudging eyes glanced toward Ji Youyou’s direction. Then, she held her head high arrogantly and left.

“Mia!” Louis suddenly turned around to stare at Mia’s back coldly. “I’m warning you, you better not try to get involved in some things. If not, it will definitely not be advantageous for you!”

“Would I benefit from not getting involved, though?” Mia sneered before leaving.

Louis swung his fists in the air furiously before he cursed and headed to his office.

As the charity foundation's clerk, it was an understatement for Louis to have his own office.

Not long after Louis went into his office, Mia rerouted back with her files. Her eyes scanned Louis' office before she turned around and headed toward Ji Youyou.

"Are you Ji Youyou?" Mia went closer to Ji Youyou before a small smile appeared on her face.

Ji Youyou stopped what she was doing and glanced up anxiously, "That's right. I'm Ji Youyou... You are?"

“My name is Mia... I’m one of the members in our work group! I just received information that your work assignment is finally out, so I’ll be placing these with you. Hopefully you can get all of these done by today!” Mia introduced herself before placing all the files that she was holding onto Ji Youyou’s desk.

“So much?” Ji Youyou exclaimed. She was slightly caught off guard. “T-These are impossible to be completed by today!”

“That’s your problem!” Mia’s face darkened. “You can talk to the head of the clerk if you can’t finish your work. Why would you want to complain in front of me? Do you understand what I mean?”

Ji Youyou's face flushed but she did not say anything.

Seeing Ji Youyou's facial expression, Mia turned her head around arrogantly before leaving.

Ji Youyou sighed lightly before opening the files and started going through them.

Although the files weren't much, its content was very complicated. It definitely wasn't easy to get them settled.

After spending almost an entire day, Ji Youyou could only manage to finish around half of the files.

It was already night time when Ji

Youyou took a break to stretch. She felt worried as she stared at three more files that were still not done yet.

Ji Youyou couldn't help but feel helpless as she still hadn't finished her work when it was almost midnight already.

Ring ring ring!

The phone rang and Cen Xia's voice rang out. "Youyou... When are you coming back? I'm so tired already..."

"Soon! I'll finish my work soon!" Ji Youyou answered hurriedly.

"Ji Youyou!"

Mia's annoyed voice rang out from the door. "What are you doing? Aren't you working? Can you use your phone when you're working? Don't you have any work etiquettes?"

Ji Youyou want taken aback at that as she hurriedly kept her phone and lowered her head to continue going through the files.

"Don't think of going home tonight if you can't get them done!" Mia barked before slamming the door shut.

Ji Youyou sighed before she hurried to finish her job.

At the same time, Louis was waiting in his car in the street downstairs as he continued eyeing his watch.

He was very anxious as Ji Youyou still hadn't come down when it was almost midnight already. Louis heard that Ji Youyou was arranged with a heap ton of work when he clocked out. However, he did not expect this much work.

Louis was annoyed. Eyeing the four bodyguards in the car, he took his phone and gave Mia a call. "I've already told you to not get yourself involved. Why won't you listen to me? Who told you to arrange so much work for her?"

"How's that any of my business?" Mia sneered. "Louis, her group leader is the one who arranged her work assignment. Why are you blaming it on me?"

"Why would she be arranged with so much work if you didn't pull anything in the dark?" Louis was furious.

Suppressing his voice, he warned, “Mia, I’m warning you not to try anything funny again... If not, you might die!”

“I might die?” Mia’s voice was shrill as she laughed. “You’re saying that I might die? Why don’t you let me die right now then?”
