

The First Heir - Chapter 3021 -
Philip was back.

Sure enough, they soon heard footsteps outside. A team of bodyguards in black suits ran in. Philip and the others walked in through the door.

Charles and Martha quickly got up, greeted them, and said with a smile, "Philip, you're back."

Philip glanced at Charles and Martha, who was hiding behind Charles and dared not look at him. He did not say anything and just asked, "Where are Mila and Nelson?"

Charles quickly replied, "They're taking an afternoon nap on the second floor."

Philip nodded, went up to the second floor, and saw Mila and his young son sleeping soundly in the room.

After watching for a while, he came down from the second floor and saw Charles and Martha standing and whispering to each other.

Theo and the others had already gone back, while Fennel and the others were staying in a hotel.

"What's up?" Philip's sixth sense told him that something was up between Charles and Martha.

Charles was about to speak when Martha pinched him fiercely and said, "It's nothing. You just came back so I'll make you some food."

Philip smiled and nodded.

Martha quickly dragged Charles into the kitchen. However, soon, several cars stopped outside First Palace.

The door opened, and a few arrogant and domineering men stepped out of the car. They were dressed flamboyantly in floral shirts and pants.

The person in the lead was a handsome young man. He took off his sunglasses, spat out the toothpick in his mouth, and glanced at First Palace. He waved his hand and said, "Let's go, buddies. This villa will be ours in the future."

Then, seven or eight burly men followed the handsome young man and walked into First Palace.

"Martha Yates, Charles Johnston, get out here at once! I'm here to collect the money!" A roar came from the door.

Philip frowned as he sat in the living room.

Martha and Charles hurried out of the kitchen and saw those people walking in.

“Hey, you have a guest at home, and you’re preparing lunch too. It just so happens that we’re all hungry. You can prepare lunch for us too.”

The handsome man glanced at Martha who was wearing an apron and looked contemptuously at Philip, who was sitting on the sofa in the living room. He walked over, sat on the side, picked up the teacup on the table, and drank. The rest also walked into the living room one after another.

Seeing this, Martha was so frightened that her knees went weak

She quickly said, “Um, Midge, my son-in-law is here today. Can you come back another day?”

As she spoke, Martha’s eyes were full of plea.

When the handsome man heard this, he looked at Philip and said with a snort, “Oh, is he that useless son-in-law of yours?”

Midge was not a local, so he did not know much about Riverdale and even less about Philip. He had only heard that the son-in-law of the Johnston family was a wastrel.

Martha inwardly lamented when she heard Midge’s remark.

Sure enough!

Smack!

Philip, who was sitting on the sofa, raised his hand and slapped Midge, sending him flying off his seat. His cheek swelled and several teeth were knocked out!

“Ouch! How dare you hit me? Do you know who I am?” Midge clutched his cheek and got up from the ground with a sinister expression.

His buddies drew daggers from their waists and aimed them at Philip.

Philip poured a cup of tea indifferently and said, “I’ll give you 10 seconds to get out of here or you’ll bear the consequences.”

Poof!

Midge spat a mouthful of blood and said vehemently, "Are you threatening me? How dare a piece of trash like you act so arrogantly in front of me? Buddies, break his arms!"

At Midge's command, seven or eight burly men roared and charged at Philip!

Biff, bang, thud!

However, in an instant, everyone was sent flying away. They lay on the floor with broken arms and legs, howling incessantly. Then, Philip looked at Midge coldly and asked, "Tell me how you want to die."

The First Heir - Chapter 3022 -

Midge was extremely flustered. He pointed at Philip tremblingly and shouted, "D-Don't be so cocky. Do you think you're great just because you have some moves? Let me tell you that I have a big brother behind me. If you dare to do anything to me, he won't let you off!"

Midge panicked as he looked at his buddies on the floor for fear that Philip would break his arms and legs too.

Philip looked at Midge indifferently and asked coldly, "I have two questions. First, what are you doing here?"

Midge thought about it and said, "T-To collect debts!"

Philip frowned, looked at Martha and Charles who stood dumbfounded on the side, and asked, "What debts?"

Midge immediately replied, "Your mother-in-law owes us a gambling debt of 500 million dollars. This villa and some shares of the Beacon Group belong to us now. We're here to collect the debts today!"

While saying that, Midge took out an IOU from his pocket with Martha's signature and fingerprint on it.

"Look for yourself. Your mother-in-law signed this herself. You can't deny this debt," Midge said and handed the IOU to Philip.

Philip glanced at it, and a chill flashed in the corner of his eyes. He turned to look at Martha coldly.

Martha was so frightened that her face turned pale. She knelt on the floor with a thud and shouted, "Philip, I was wrong. I won't do it anymore. I was cheated. I didn't know it'd turn out like this."

Martha burst into tears.

On the side, Charles shook his head and sighed helplessly. He said, "Philip, it's your mother's fault, but she was deceived."

Philip glanced coldly at Martha and said, "I'll deal with you later."

After that, he looked at Midge and said, "My mother-in-law said that you deceived her. Is that true?"

Midge was immediately annoyed and shouted, "Nonsense! Everything is in black and white. Where's the deception? She was just bad at gambling and lost so much money. How dare she say we deceived her?"

Martha knelt on the ground, pointed at Midge, and said hoarsely, "Bullsh*t! Everything was a scam! You even cheated!"

Hearing this, Philip had figured out something.

He tore the IOU in his hand, glared at the stunned Midge, and said, "I don't want any trouble, but don't you cause any trouble either. I've destroyed the IOU. Bring your people away."

Midge was furious!

"Hey, are you going to default on your debt?" Midge was no coward either.

This was a debt worth 500 million. If his big brother found out that he screwed this up, he would end up dead too.

Philip glanced at Midge coldly and said, "If you feel unhappy about this, we can make a bet now with 500 million at stake. If you win, you'll get 500 million more. If you lose, take your people and get lost!"

Midge gritted his teeth and shouted solemnly, "Deal!"

The First Heir - Chapter 3023 -

A few minutes later, Midge sat opposite Philip with a deck of playing cards on the table.

Philip said, "Let's go with the easiest. The one with the most points wins. You go first."

Midge was startled, and his forehead dripped with sweat. He hesitated for a long time before he drew a card from the deck. He flipped it over and saw a K.

“Hahaha! I got a K!” Midge laughed. He was so lucky.

On one side, Martha sweated profusely from anxiety. She thought that they would lose another 500 million for sure. However, Philip smiled indifferently and said, “As long as it’s not the biggest card, I still have a chance.”

Midge sneered and said, “Hehe, you can only win if you draw an Ace. Unfortunately, with so many cards remaining, your chances are very low.”

As he said that, Philip casually drew a card from the deck and flipped it over.

A!

“I’m sorry, but my luck has always been good. I won, so take your men and get lost,” Philip said calmly.

Midge was dumbfounded. He pointed at Philip and shouted, “You cheated!”

Philip sneered and threw a slap.

Smack!

Midge flew out and fell heavily to the ground.

“Scram!” Philip roared angrily.

Midge staggered up from the ground and quickly ran out with his buddies who had broken arms and legs. Before he left, he glared at Philip resentfully, and said, “Dude, remember, this isn’t over yet! Just you wait. I’ll call my big brother now!”

“Go ahead,” Philip said mildly.

Then, he stared at Martha kneeling on the floor and asked coldly, “Do you realize your mistake?”

Martha nodded vigorously and said, “Philip, I was wrong. I was really wrong. I really got cheated. I was just hanging out with my friends, and they brought me to a game. I didn’t mean for this to happen. Please don’t hit me.”

Philip snorted coldly and said, “If not for the fact that you’re Wynn’s mother, I’d have kicked you out long ago! From today onward, you’re not allowed to leave the Villa. I’ll get someone to keep an eye on you. If you make another mistake, then you’ll need to leave the villa of your own accord!”

“Yes, okay!” Martha kept nodding and apologizing.

Then, Philip went upstairs and returned with Mila in his arms. Mila was extremely excited at seeing Philip after so long. She circled Philip and pestered him to play with her.

Philip thought of Wynn when he looked at Mila and could not help but feel despondent.

Not long after, several luxury cars stopped outside the villa again. A tall man with sunglasses got out of the car with chills all over his body.

Midge trotted over and said, “Big Brother, this is it. That guy has some moves. He took all my boys down.”

The man wearing sunglasses hummed coldly, glanced at First Palace in front of him, and said with a smile, “This place is good. As my first residence in Riverdale, it’s not bad.”

With that said, he walked into the villa with his men. Several bodyguards left by Theo at the door wanted to stop him, but they were kicked by the man and sent flying.

In the villa, Philip was playing with Mila when he suddenly noticed a strange energy fluctuation and the power of rules. Then, several people barged in through the door. The man in the lead was a burly man with sunglasses and a scar on the corner of his mouth.

Behind him was Midge who had left earlier.

“Big Brother, it’s him. He took our men down and destroyed the document,” Midge pointed at Philip and shouted.

The man glanced at Philip coldly and said, “My friend, there are rules for everything. I don’t want to kill anyone today, so you should take your family and move out from here.”

Philip said indifferently, “Let’s see if you have what it takes.”

The First Heir - Chapter 3024 -

The man smiled and said, “Interesting. You’re the first person to talk to me in that way.”

Next to him, Midge pointed at Philip and roared, “Dude, you’re too arrogant. I’m afraid you don’t know the fame of Reaper Notting, the Grim Reaper of Northwood!”

The Grim Reaper of Northwood? Reaper Notting?

Philip frowned and shrugged as he said, “I’m sorry, but I really don’t know him. You may leave now.”

With that said, Philip was about to go upstairs with Mila in his arms.

Reaper Notting scowled and glared at Philip with icy eyes through his sunglasses. He shouted, "Kid, you're too arrogant!"

Bang!

Suddenly, Reaper attacked. A domineering punch with mighty force slammed into Philip's back. Under normal circumstances, as long as Reaper made a move, his opponent would surely die. Thus, all the men behind Reaper snickered. That kid was dead for sure. How dare he provoke Reaper into taking action?

However, a shocking scene happened...

In Philip's arms, Mila raised her small hand, pointed at Reaper who was throwing a punch, and said, "Dad, he's going to punch you..."

Philip smiled, bopped Mila on the nose, and said, "I know. I'll teach you how to deal with bad people today, okay?"

"Oh, okay!" Mila danced with joy.

Reaper and his men were furious at this scene. They were being underestimated. Facing Reaper's punch, Philip was still so arrogant!

"You're courting death!" Reaper roared, and the strength of his fist suddenly increased like a vortex. However, Philip merely turned around lightly. His icy gaze was like a falcon that locked on the incoming punch from Reaper. Then, in Reaper's astonished eyes, Philip raised a hand and struck out a palm lightly.

Boom!

Reaper's fist slammed into Philip's palm and he was thrown out by the impact. He fell heavily to the ground and spat a mouthful of blood!

"R-Reaper, are you alright?"

Midge was the first to run over and pulled Reaper up. The others had anxious expressions on their faces.

They pointed at Philip and shouted angrily, "Boy, you're courting death! How dare you launch a sneak attack?!"

Philip smiled coldly with Mila in his arms and said, "To deal with bad guys, you have to beat them until they surrender. Do you understand?"

Mila looked at Reaper lying on the ground before turning to Philip. She nodded vigorously and said, "I understand. To deal with bad guys, I must beat them until they surrender."

While saying that, Mila waved her fist around.

Philip might not know this, but his words today would create a domineering little girl in the future.

The First Heir - Chapter 3025 -

Philip looked indifferently at Reaper, who had fallen to the ground and vomited blood. He said, "A disciple from the fifth zone dares to wreak havoc in the secular world. Is this how you do things in Northwood?"

A thunderous roar shocked everyone!

Reaper quickly got up, knelt in front of Philip like a child who did something wrong, and said, "I didn't know that I'd offend you. Please forgive me!"

Reaper lowered his head and trembled all over!

His men were dumbfounded when they saw Reaper kneeling and apologizing. He was Reaper Notting, the Grim Reaper of Northwood. At this moment, he was kneeling on the ground so humbly.

In an instant, they understood and knelt, apologizing for their mistake.

Philip snorted and said, "I'll remember what happened today. I'll personally make a trip to Northwood later and see for myself what Northwood looks like!"

Hearing that, Reaper trembled. Just now, he felt the power of the seventh zone from Philip. This was simply unbelievable. The other party could crush him to death with one finger. Thus, Reaper could only kneel and apologize.

"Get lost!" Philip bellowed angrily, and Reaper immediately got out of the villa with his men.

After he left the villa, Reaper breathed a sigh of relief. His back was completely drenched in a cold sweat.

At this moment, Midge asked, "Reaper, why were we so afraid of him just now? Isn't he just a useless son-in-law?"

Smack!

Reaper slapped Midge and shouted angrily, "You're the useless one! He's a big character that not even my teacher will dare to mess with! All of you, go back and prepare a generous gift! We'll come back tomorrow and apologize again!"

"Y-Yes," Midge covered his other swollen cheek and felt like crying. However, he also realized that if even Reaper's teacher dared not provoke this person, he must be amazing!

On Philip's side, after he chased this bunch of people away, he stayed in the villa for a while longer before heading out.

Martin Pharmaceutical Group.

Brothers Martin and Bernard Johnston sat in the director's office anxiously.

"Martin, I heard that Philip is back. What should we do?" Bernard asked.

Martin sat on the sofa while smoking a cigar with a stern expression. He said, "Get someone to tail him in secret. Don't mess with him. We mustn't ruin our plan!"

Bernard nodded and said, "By the way, Martin, the man in a black robe came again yesterday. He wants to know when we'll take action."

Martin scowled and said, "Tell him to be patient. I have a plan. Also, tell him to be nice to my son. If anything happens to my son, I won't help him!"

"Okay," Bernard nodded.

On Philip's side, after he left the villa, he went to the old house where he and Wynn lived before. The old house brought back memories.

After entering the house, everything in front of him seemed unchanged as if it had just been yesterday when they were staying here. He had lived here with Wynn for so many years, and everything seemed so familiar.

Philip sat on the sofa in the living room and felt full of emotions. If he could do it again, he would tell Wynn everything and not let her suffer for so many years.

After sitting for half an hour, Philip got up and was about to leave. However, suddenly, he found that the room seemed to have been tampered with. His eyes fell on the TV cabinet. He opened the cabinet and found a letter inside. He opened the envelope and found a letter left by Wynn a long time ago.

[Philip, when you read this letter, I may have completely forgotten about you. Remember, don't come to Cochly Mountain to find a way to save me. This is a conspiracy of the Lovelace family. They want to lure you into entering Cochly Mountain and use you to open the stargate to achieve their evil schemes. Your loving wife, Wynn Johnston.]

The First Heir - Chapter 3026 -

After Philip read this letter that Wynn had left behind at some point, the chills in his eyes became more solemn.

The Lovelace family of Cochly Mountain was just a conspiracy?

It was to lure Philip to enter Cochly Mountain and help the Lovelace family to open the stargate?

The Lovelace family had planned such a grand scheme. Once the stargate was opened, the consequences would be unimaginable!

Crack!

Suddenly, Philip heard a sound from the window. He quickly looked back and saw a thin figure running away from the window. He gave chase immediately. He saw no one, but at the window, he saw an overturned flower pot and a pair of small footprints in the soil. The footprints were strange, unlike a human.

Philip immediately unleashed his rules of insight that covered dozens of miles. All the streets and alleys, pedestrians, cars, and such in the vicinity appeared in Philip's rules of insight.

He vaguely felt a dark purple aura.

In an instant, Philip discovered someone with a dark purple aura all over that looked like a dog. It was weaving through the crowd and jumping on the buildings and rooftops from time to time.

"Found you!"

Philip ran out immediately, jumping and chasing from building to building. Soon, he caught up with the other party that was jumping between buildings. The other party noticed Philip who was giving chase. It howled and ran away quickly!

Philip gave chase, jumping from building to building. Finally, Philip forced the other party into a dark alley. He stood at the entrance of the alley with his hands in his trouser pockets, staring coldly into the depths of the alley. The other party was hunched over with a tail upright in the air!

The other party's eyes were red with vertical pupils, and it bared its fangs at Philip while panting shrilly.

Philip frowned. This little creature looked like a dog, but its head was very similar to a creature that Philip had once seen.

Beelzebub!

That was right! That creature looked like Beelzebub!

Particularly under the creature's anxiety and fear, its pair of tails grew jagged scales. Philip was even more surprised to see a pair of dark purple wings on its back.

"Huh?" Philip hummed, and the creature immediately rushed toward him like lightning.

At the same time, dark purple lightning from its mouth struck Philip. Philip dodged sideways, raised his leg, and kicked the creature away.

"Ow!"

The creature fell to the ground with a whimper. It got up again, and dark purple lightning crackled on the pair of wings behind it.

he First Heir - Chapter 3027 -

Philip frowned and said, "I don't like killing. If you attack again, I won't show any mercy!"

The creature seemed to understand his words, but due to its nature, it rushed toward Philip again!

Philip shook his head helplessly, reached out with his hand that had turned into a chimera arm, and grabbed the little creature in the air. The little creature struggled violently in Philip's hand, flapping its wings constantly.

As Philip was about to interrogate the creature, a young girl with two ponytails and twinkling big eyes came running over. She was wearing a pleated skirt and had a black collar around her neck. The young girl looked about 17 or 18 years old, cute and energetic.

She ran over with clenched fists, jumped into the air, and hugged the little creature dotingly. She rubbed the little creature with her face and said sweetly, "Blackie, I finally found you. I thought I lost you!"

Thump!

The girl fell to the ground but still hugged the creature tightly as if she was unafraid of pain. The creature looked at Philip in despair, struggling with its claws. Its eyes were full of tears as if begging Philip to take it away.

When the girl stood up with the creature in her arms, she walked up to Philip, looking a little foolish and cute. She bent down at a 90-degree angle, which sprung her two ponytails forward. She said, "Thank you for finding Blackie for me."

The creature in the girl's arms looked proud and aloof as it glared at Philip resentfully. With that said, the girl turned to leave.

Philip stopped her. "Wait a minute..."

The girl turned around, tilted her head, smiled cutely at Philip, and said, "What's the matter?"

Philip stroked his chin, glanced at the girl, and asked, "What's that in your arms?"

"It's Blackie," the girl said with a smile, revealing two dimples.

"It doesn't seem to be something that should exist in this world," Philip said.

The girl looked at Philip nervously and asked, "What do you want to do? This is my pet. Although it looks a little strange, it won't harm anyone."

Philip looked at the little creature in the girl's arms coldly and said, "It appeared in my house just now. I want to know why."

The girl looked down at the creature in her arms and said, "Blackie must have sensed something in your house."

Hearing that, the creature nodded to Philip in a human-like manner and gestured with two paws.

Philip could not figure it out and asked, "What does it mean?"

The girl replied, "Um, Blackie said a smell that it once feared appeared in your house."

'A smell that it feared?' Philip frowned and asked, "And who are you?"

The girl hesitated before she replied, "A-Actually, I ran away from home. Please don't call the police. I don't want to go back. I just want to come out and see the outside world."

Philip was taken aback, wondering if something was wrong with this girl. She actually told others so easily that she ran away from home.

Shaking his head helplessly, Philip said, "Little girl, there are many bad people outside. You should go home quickly..."

With that said, Philip turned around and left.

The creature in the girl's arms yowled at the girl, whose eyes twinkled as she said, "Blackie, are you serious? You sensed your kind in his body?"

Then, the girl followed Philip sneakily.

Philip frowned, looked back, stopped in his tracks, and turned around. The girl had her head lowered and bumped into Philip. She exclaimed and rubbed her forehead.

"Why are you following me?" Philip asked.

The girl pouted and said, "I have nowhere to go. Can I follow you?"

Philip said in exasperation, "Of course not. Where do you live? I'll get someone to take you back."

The girl kept shaking her head and refused to say a word. Philip was helpless and decided not to care about her. He turned to leave, but the girl followed him.

Meanwhile, far away in Cochly Mountain near the stargate.

Several old men with gray hair gathered near the stargate with dark faces.

"Oh no, the guardian maiden of the stargate has run away with the little one!"

The First Heir - Chapter 3028 -
Several old men gathered near the stargate.

The stargate had been sealed, and this was a forbidden area. The surrounding was dark, the ground was cracked, and the sky was gray. Lightning and thunder intertwined in the low sky as red and black mist floated in the air.

Eight huge stone pillars towered into the sky, each with a width of a dozen people. Obscure characters and patterns were carved on the stone pillars. Several huge locks connected each pillar, and the dull clatter of iron chains could occasionally be heard in the wind.

An area full of restrictions was found at the end of these stone pillars with an ancient altar inside. The altar was full of spells and enchantments to suppress it.

The old men stood in the outer area of the stone pillars and looked solemnly at the altar from a distance. They were none other than the five half-steps to the other shore who appeared in Larson Manor back then!

The five marquises!

“Quickly send someone to contact Cochly Mountain and the Nonagon. We must find the guardian maiden quickly!” one of the old men scowled and commanded.

“We don’t have a choice. She was hand-picked by the previous guardian maiden. Although she’s young, she has an affinity with the stargate and those creatures. We just need to guide her more.”

Marquis Fulmore said. He looked into the distance and added, “Recently, the strange movements of the stargate are getting more frequent. We have to find a solution as soon as possible.”

Another old man said gravely, “It should be related to the last incident in Mystic Cave. Those people on the other shore must have discovered something for them to test the power of the stargate so frequently.”

“No matter what, our duty is to guard the stargate. If those guys from the other shore dare to break in, I’ll kill them!”

At the outer area of the stargate, in the vicinity of Cochly Mountain.

In a vast man-made city amid this endless snow-capped mountain range, there were buildings made of steel and boulders, guards with high-tech weapons, and vehicles.

In the snow, a jeep that was dyed white by the wind and snow quickly stopped at the door of a house built from steel boulders.

Two tall men in white combat uniforms jumped out of the jeep. The man in the lead with a serious angular face and a beard rushed into this building that looked like a fortress.

“Commander Greene...” Seeing the middle-aged man who walked in, the staff members in the building saluted one after another.

The man hummed and headed to an office.

An emergency meeting was being held in the office. It was full of men and women, old and young, dressed in combat uniforms. Everyone seemed to be waiting for Commander Greene.

The First Heir - Chapter 3029 -

When the man appeared, these people stood up in salute and greeted him, “Commander Greene...”

Commander Greene walked up to the main seat, waved his hand, and said, “We have no time for pleasantries. According to the news from the five marquises, the guardian maiden has run away from the stargate. This is urgent. You must deploy more manpower to search the entire Cochly Mountain to find the guardian maiden as soon as possible...”

“Also, we need to contact the Nonagon and ask them to conduct a search in the secular world. At the same time, tell the Supernatural Bureau to do the same. Meeting adjourned!”

Clatter!

Everyone stood up with serious faces, saluted, and said, “Yes, sir!”

After these people left the meeting room, a young man in combat uniform rushed in with a document and said, “Commander Greene, this is the latest monitoring data from the stargate. After the guardian maiden left, the stargate burst with terrifying energy fluctuations several times. Something behind the stargate should be trying to force their way in.”

Commander Greene took the report, glanced at it quickly, and a trace of chill flashed in the corner of his eyes. He said, “Deploy the disciples and tell them to guard the stargate from now on. Once anything happens, they need to fight at the highest combat level!”

“Yes, sir!”

The young man received the order and left the meeting room immediately.

Commander Greene grimly looked at the heavy snow outside the window and said to the guards around him, “Are the new batch of kids who entered the training grounds back yet?”

The female officer behind him said, “Not yet. There’s still one week to go before they can leave.”

Commander Greene nodded with a glint in his eyes.

Meanwhile, at a mountain range in Cochly Mountain, a figure wearing a black robe with a lot of snow on his body walked along the path to the highest snow-capped mountain in front of him.

This person had a mechanical face with two red eyes that glowed strangely.

Soon, he came to the peak of the highest mountain here. Standing at the peak of the snow-capped mountain, the black robe fluttered in the wind. He looked unfathomable and forlorn.

Only the whistling of the wind could be heard with snow drifting in the air.

This person in a black robe could clearly see the view of the entire Cochly Mountain, including the fortress-like buildings in the mountains and the huge city wall at the entrance.

“I’ve waited hundreds of years just for this day. Mighty God of the other shore, I await your arrival here...”

The man in a black robe looked very excited. He raised his hands and bowed to the sky at the mountain-top. Then, he reached out with one hand and grabbed at the snow mountain below. The hand dazzled with a red light and slowly lifted!

Rumble!

In an instant, a huge avalanche occurred on the mountain as the snow lifted.

Under the snow-capped peak, a huge black spaceship slowly appeared. This huge thing floated up from the mountain, and the snow on top of it fell, revealing its true appearance. It was a spaceship that should not appear in this civilization!

The lights on the hull of this huge spaceship that looked like a crab flashed non-stop.

With a look of excitement on his face, the man in a black robe jumped onto the spaceship and entered the hull.

Meanwhile, the garrison radar of Cochly Mountain detected abnormal fluctuations in this area. In an instant, several fighter planes took off and flew in that direction. At the same time, several missiles were launched at the huge spaceship.

The First Heir - Chapter 3030 -

Rumble!

Several missiles bombarded the huge spaceship with mighty force, and flames exploded into the sky!

The pilots on the fighter planes were horrified when they saw the huge spaceship that floated up from the snow-capped mountains.

“What the hell is this thing? How did it appear here?”

“Is this an alien spaceship?”

“Oh no! We’ve been locked on. It’s going to attack! Quick, retreat!”

Immediately, the fighter planes in the sky began to retreat. However, two mechanical arms with special gun barrels stretched out from both sides of the huge crab-like spaceship.

Boom, bang!

The gun barrels fired bullets and missiles, which formed strong firepower that engulfed those fighter planes!

Rat-tat-tat!

The entire snow-capped mountain was filled with the sounds of firearms!

Boom!

Two fighter planes were hit and exploded in the air!

“Damn it! Fire!”

Immediately after, a more intense battle broke out. Several fighter planes continued to fire at the huge spaceship.

Inside the building facilities in Cochly Mountain, a group of people was monitoring the situation by radar.

“Report! The other party’s firepower is too strong! Requesting for reinforcements!”

“Deploy another 10 fighter planes!”

Several fighter planes took off on the tarmac.

Commander Greene stood on the highest observation platform and watched the battle scene in the distant mountains with binoculars. With a chill on his face, he said, "Did you find out? Where did this alien spaceship come from?"

The guard behind him replied, "We've retrieved the information from the global satellite database. This spaceship has never appeared before, and all countries deny any knowledge about it."

Hearing this, Commander Greene coldly asked, "What does it mean?"

The guard said, "This isn't a fighter aircraft that can be built by the current civilization. It should be a spacecraft of an extraterrestrial civilization, most likely from the other shore."

Hearing this, Commander Greene's eyes were full of fear!

A spacecraft from the other shore had been buried in Cochly Mountain the entire time?

Commander Greene's face was cold, and he was worried. Now that this spacecraft that did not belong to this world had appeared, was that a sign of something?

"Immediately issue the order for martial law!" Commander Greene bellowed.

In an instant, the whole man-made city in Cochly Mountain was under martial law!

The First Heir - Chapter 3031

Teams of guards kept the city under close watch. One after another, armored vehicles and fighter planes rushed to the battleground. The huge spaceship was fighting with dozens of fighter planes at the moment.

All the disciples undergoing training in Cochly Mountain also came out and joined the battle.

A battle that could destroy a city broke out here!

In the distant land, the Nonagon received communication from Cochly Mountain.

"Report! An unknown aircraft has appeared in Cochly Mountain and is currently fighting against the garrison."

A correspondent quickly reported.

"Move the satellite and see what's going on there!" A man in a combat uniform ordered coldly.

Soon, the satellite screen was launched and showed the huge spaceship fighting against armored vehicles on land and fighter planes in the sky. There were dozens of disciples joining the battle. The scene was very intense.

“What did you find?” the man in combat uniform asked coldly.

“We couldn’t find any information about this spacecraft. According to the information sent by Cochly Mountain, they suspect that it’s an alien product,” the staff said.

Hearing that, the man in a combat uniform asked in horror, “An alien product?”

Then, his face darkened. He said, “I’ll report to the commander-in-chief immediately. Monitor the situation closely. Also, tell Cochly Mountain to stand guard at all costs!”

“Yes, sir!”

Soon, the man in a combat uniform came to the commander’s office.

At this moment, Cooper Berry was talking to the researchers of the research institute in the office. When he saw the man who suddenly came in, he asked with an unpleasant expression, “What’s the matter?”

The man quickly walked up to Cooper and whispered in his ear.

Cooper’s expression changed rapidly. He quickly left the office and came to the satellite monitoring room. When he saw the extremely advanced spaceship, his expression turned wild with frenzy.

“Immediately deploy reinforcements to Cochly Mountain. Be sure to capture this spaceship for me. This is a great gift for us. With it, we can understand the technology of the second civilization system in advance!” Cooper said excitedly, then, he turned and added, “No, I must go there in person!”

He boarded a private plane and headed to Cochly Mountain with a team. The commotion in Cochly Mountain quickly spread to several major forces in the country.

Imperial Palace.

The Imperial Preceptor stood in the palace and looked up at the skylight. He watched the movements of the stars and constantly deduced something.

At this moment, a guard in golden armor rushed in quickly, knelt on one knee, and said, "Imperial Preceptor, we received emergency news from Cochly Mountain..."

The Imperial Preceptor frowned and asked, "What's wrong?"

The guard said, "An unidentified aircraft has been discovered in Cochly Mountain. Commander Greene thinks that it's an alien product most likely left behind by the other shore back then."

Hearing this, the Imperial Preceptor's face darkened instantly as a domineering aura suddenly surged from him. He said, "Immediately deploy the Golden Battalion to Cochly Mountain, and be sure to bring that aircraft back to me! Show my Imperial Decree to anyone who stands in the way. Anyone who refuses to obey shall be killed without mercy!"

With that said, the Imperial Preceptor tossed out a golden token.

The guard caught it and left the hall respectfully.

At this time, a middle-aged man with glasses walked out from behind the screen, glanced at the departing guard, and said, "Imperial Preceptor, it seems that he has taken action ahead of schedule."

The Imperial Preceptor said coldly, "How dare Fitzgerald Hale try to destroy Cochly Mountain and the stargate? He must be dreaming! Cochly Mountain has been preparing for so many years just to deal with those things from the other shore lurking in the dark! Now that Fitzgerald is getting impatient, let's see how many of them are hiding in the dark!"

The middle-aged man said indifferently, "Marquis Fulmore just sent a secret message that the guardian maiden has left the stargate without permission."

Hearing this, the Imperial Preceptor frowned and said, "That little girl ran away?"

The middle-aged man nodded and said, "She's still young and playful, so it's not surprising that she snuck out..."

"Has she been found?" the Imperial Preceptor asked.

"Yes, she's in Riverdale, and coincidentally, the little girl has made contact with Philip Clarke," the middle-aged man said, his eyes flickering.

The First Heir - Chapter 3032 -

Hearing that, the Imperial Preceptor frowned and said, "How did she make contact with Philip?"

The middle-aged man shook his head and said, "It should be credited to the little Beelzebub she abducted. It smelled its kind on Philip."

The Imperial Preceptor's eyes turned icy, and he said, "When the Beelzebub family wreaked havoc in the human world back then, they should have been exterminated with no survivors left behind!"

The middle-aged man said, "But that little one is kind by nature, different from the combat beasts of the Beelzebub family."

"Hmph!" The Imperial Preceptor snorted coldly and said, "If they hadn't joined forces to submit the petition, I wouldn't have agreed to keep that creature."

The middle-aged man smiled and said, "Imperial Preceptor, you were magnanimous. They have found many things from that little one now, so the benefits to the human race and civilization outweigh the disadvantages."

The Imperial Preceptor fell silent at the remark. He looked up at the stars and said, "I hope so. Immediately send some people to keep an eye on Riverdale. Also, the Heavenly Court is bound to make another move. We need to be prepared. I don't want any accidents beyond the control of the chess game."

"Yes, my lord," the middle-aged man said and left the hall silently.

The Imperial Preceptor stood in the hall, looked up at the stars, and finally said with a sigh, "Maybe the stargate should be opened ahead of schedule for some people to enter for training..."

Back to Philip's side. At this moment, he had returned to the old house, and he was followed secretly by the girl and the little creature in her arms.

At the entrance of the old house, the creature in the girl's arms became extremely frantic and nervous. All its hairs stood on end.

"What's wrong, Blackie?" the girl asked with concern. Blackie kept panting heavily.

Philip frowned and stared at the girl and the little creature. He asked, "What does it mean?"

The girl pondered for a while before she said to Philip in astonishment, "Blackie said that several auras that frightened it once appeared here."

Philip's eyes froze. He stared at the creature in the girl's arms and said, "Ask it where they came from."

The girl nodded and did so. She replied, "Blackie said they came from the stargate."

Philip's gaze sharpened, he stepped forward, grabbed the girl, and asked, "Do you know the stargate?"

The girl was frightened by Philip's actions. She pouted and was about to cry. She said, "O-Of course, I do. That's where I came from."

'This girl came from the stargate?' Philip was doubtful.

He let go of her and asked coldly, "Who are you guys exactly?"

The girl pouted and said after a while, "I'm the guardian maiden. Everyone calls me that. I ran away from the stargate. It was so boring there. I was dying of boredom facing those old men all day long, so I snuck out."

Hearing the girl's explanation, Philip's eyes froze.

How could a girl who snuck out of the stargate be an ordinary person?

Moreover, the old men she mentioned... Could they be?

"Tell me the truth, who are you and why are you here?!" Philip's face became colder.

The girl was startled and muttered, "Why are you so fierce? I'm the guardian maiden, and I ran away from the stargate!"

"How could a little girl like you run away from the stargate? Do you think I'm stupid?" Philip retorted.

The First Heir - Chapter 3033 -

The girl pouted and said, "The stargate is my home. I've always lived at the stargate, and I took Blackie with me too. If you don't believe me, just ask Blackie."

After saying that, the girl held Blackie up to Philip's face. Blackie got annoyed and roared. It struggled free from the girl's hold, turned around, and arched in the direction of the door!

"What does it mean?" Philip asked.

Seeing this, the girl said worriedly, "Oh no, they must be here to catch me!"

With that said, the girl picked up Blackie and was about to run. However, suddenly, two figures, one tall and fat while the other short and thin, rushed over from a distance and landed at the door, blocking the girl's path.

The tall fat man carried a huge ax on his shoulders. His head was bald, and he wore a golden metallic mask that covered his nose and below. Vital parts such as his chest were covered with golden armor.

The short thin man beside him held a morning star in his hand, looked at the girl indifferently, stretched out his hand, and said in a gruff voice, "Hand the Beelzebub over!"

"No!" The girl held Blackie in her arms and said obstinately.

The short thin man sneered, held the morning star up, and said, "Don't blame us brothers for doing this, then!"

"Go out and fight. Don't destroy my house." Philip suddenly said coldly with a chill in his eyes.

The tall fat man scowled and shouted angrily through the golden mask, "You're courting death!"

Then, he swung the giant ax in his hand at Philip!

Philip's eyes froze and immediately judged that this guy had the strength in the early stage of the sixth zone!

Bang!

The giant ax smashed the floor where Philip stood. Philip had pulled the girl back and retreated to the side. When he saw the smashed floor, his eyes surged with biting killing intent as he said, "I don't care who you are. You have to pay for damaging my house!"

After saying that, Philip's figure disappeared from the spot, and he threw a domineering punch at the man with an ax!

Boom!

Philip's punch slammed into the man's chest and sent him flying. He landed heavily on the small square below. Meanwhile, the short man swung his morning star at Philip!

Philip reacted quickly. He turned sideways, grabbed the chain of the morning star, exerted force, and threw the short man out. Then, Philip landed on the flat ground of the small square, stared at the two men coldly, and asked, "Who are you?"

The short man said in a sharp voice, "A dead man has no right to ask questions!"

After that, he swung his morning star again, jumped up, and pounced on Philip. This time, the morning star enlarged several hundred times and slammed into Philip!

Philip scowled, raised his eyebrows, and looked at the incoming morning star. He raised his hand and threw a punch!

Boom!

With a loud bang, the huge morning star shattered under Philip's punch, and the short man was sent flying too!

Seeing this, the man with an ax roared like a raging beast and swung his ax at Philip again. However, Philip waved his hand, and a longsword formed from air cut off one of the man's arms.

He placed the sword across the man's neck and asked coldly, "I'll ask you again, who are you?"

Before the man could answer, the girl standing in the distance cheered and shouted, "They're from the Heavenly Court, here to catch Blackie!"

The First Heir - Chapter 3034 -

"People from the Heavenly Court?" Philip said with a frown, and his icy gaze fell on the two.

The guy with the ax had lost one arm, and the blood stained half of his body red. Even so, he still did not stop attacking Philip. He swung his giant ax at Philip with his other arm.

Philip's eyes turned cold. He raised his hand and a chimera fist burst out. A chimera formed and slammed into the man's chest!

A ball of flame engulfed the man and burned vigorously. The man was covered in flames and screamed miserably. Finally, he fell to the ground with a plop, turned into ashes, and dispersed as the wind blew.

Philip glanced at the scene coldly before his eyes fell on the short guy. He said grimly, "Why did the people of Heavenly Court enter the secular world without permission? Tell me your purpose and I might let you live."

The short guy laughed sinisterly and said, "I admit that you're very strong, but going against the Heavenly Court is a big mistake! We have many talented people. Even if you kill the two of us today, stronger people will come after your life in the future!"

Philip shook his head helplessly and said, "You didn't answer my question."

After saying that, Philip raised his hand and slashed out four sword energies, which nailed the short man's limbs to the ground. He continued to ask, "Answer my question or the next one will go right into your brain."

The short guy howled and struggled violently. Suddenly, something weird wiggled out of his mouth, turned into a black bird. It flew into the sky and disappeared in the blink of an eye!

Philip frowned, but the short guy on the floor sneered and said, "Hahaha, you're finished! Next, you'll face the endless pursuit of the Heavenly Court until you meet your doom!"

With that said, the short guy slowly closed his eyes. His body shrank rapidly and finally turned into a pool of blood.

Philip frowned, obviously not expecting such a sudden turn of events.

The girl ran over with Blackie, glanced at the black bird that had disappeared, and said worriedly, "I'm sorry... That should be the messenger bird of the Heavenly Court. They'll immediately find out what happened today. You need to run now or they'll chase you until the ends of the earth."

Philip felt exasperated. He looked at the girl coldly and said, "Why are people of the Heavenly Court after you? Also, their target is the little thing in your arms. What exactly is it?"

The girl hesitated for a moment before she said, "Blackie doesn't belong to this world. It's a Beelzebub left behind during the stargate battle back then, but we've been raising it since then. The Heavenly Court wants to catch Blackie to study it and find some hidden secrets from Blackie..."

'Beelzebub?' Philip frowned and stared coldly at the little creature in the girl's arms.

The creature also felt the threat from Philip. Its hairs stood on end, and it kept baring its fangs at Philip.

The First Heir - Chapter 3035 -

The girl panicked and quickly backed away. She looked at Philip nervously and asked, "W-What do you want to do?"

Philip frowned and said, "Beelzebub isn't something you can bring out to play with. Since it's a beast from behind the stargate, I have the right to kill it now!"

A longsword made of air appeared in Philip's hand, and he could kill the creature at any time!

The girl was so anxious that she burst into tears and said, "Please don't kill Blackie. It's innocent and very well-behaved. If not for Blackie's company, I wouldn't have anyone to talk to and play with."

"That reason is insufficient. All I know is that they're the source of destruction to this world," Philip said coldly and walked toward the girl.

The girl backed away, crying and begging. The little thing in her arms grew more nervous and ferocious.

As Philip raised his sword, a figure rushed over from a distance!

This person landed in front of them and reached out with one hand, which turned into a big hand. It grabbed Blackie from the girl's arms!

Seeing this, Philip frowned and slashed at the big hand with his sword!

Clang!

The collision produced a loud clang and knocked the big hand back.

"Who dares to stop the Heavenly Court from doing our duty?" That person shouted angrily and glared at Philip coldly.

Philip frowned, turned to look at the person, and said coldly, "You came fast enough."

That person was dressed in a loose black robe with a hat that covered his face, but it was obvious that he was an old man. His face was aged, his figure was reedy, and he had a hunched back. He also seemed to be carrying a pot on his back

"So you're the one who killed the two warriors of the Heavenly Court! I can take your life, then!"

With that said, the old man sprang into action. A dozen huge arms with weapons suddenly stretched out from behind him and attacked Philip.

Philip frowned, it was the first time he had seen someone like this. He pushed the girl away violently, turned into a streak of lightning, and zoomed around the area, fighting against the dozen arms wielding weapons.

Clang, clink!

Bang, boom!

A fierce battle broke out in an instant.

The old man was not bothered about the fight with Philip at all. His icy eyes fell on the young girl in the distance with Beelzebub in her arms.

“Little girl, hand the Beelzebub over and I’ll spare your life!”

The girl hugged Blackie tightly in her arms and said, “You’re dreaming! I won’t hand Blackie to you guys!”

The old man laughed coldly and said, “In that case, I’ll kill him first before dealing with you!”

However, before he finished speaking, the old man screamed.

Philip roared angrily, and a Greenpeak Sword Formation appeared in the sky. Dozens of Greenpeak Sword shadows cut off the dozen big hands produced by the old man!

The old man cried out in pain and quickly retracted his dozen big hands. He looked at Philip in surprise and fear and said, “Who are you?”

Philip sneered and said, “A dead person has no right to know who I am!”

With that said, Philip took the initiative to attack. He stomped on the floor and jumped into the air. He slashed out a green lotus-like sword shadow at the old man.

Facing the Green Lotus Sword Shadow, the old man’s face darkened. He roared angrily, and the robe on his body exploded, revealing a huge turtle shell behind him.

The First Heir - Chapter 3036 -

A turtle shell?

Seeing this, doubt flashed in Philip’s eyes. However, the next second, the old man took the turtle shell from his back and placed it in front of him.

Clang!

The Green Lotus Sword Shadow slashed on the black turtle shell but left no trace behind. Philip even had the illusion that the Green Lotus Sword Shadow was absorbed by the black turtle shell!

The turtle shell was no ordinary thing!

Philip once again slashed several sword shadows at the old man. The old man simply lifted the turtle shell and blocked the attacks.

Every sword shadow from Philip slashed on the black turtle shell but left no traces, not even a fine line.

'What the hell?!' Philip was shocked!

The old man sneered, held the black turtle shell in his hand, and said to Philip, "Young man, do you know where this turtle shell came from?"

Philip frowned, and the old man continued to say proudly, "This ancient treasure has been passed down in my family. It's an item older than Emperor Kai and has the highest defense by nature! I can safely say that in this world, there's no second treasure with such defensive power!"

"Even a half-step to the other shore will not leave any traces on it, and even a pseudo realm of the other shore will think twice about attacking it! That's because this treasure will become even stronger in front of a mighty opponent. The more powerful the attacks it takes, the stronger the counterattacks will be. Watch out!"

The old man laughed and abruptly threw the black turtle shell at Philip.

Twang!

In an instant, a dazzling energy storm burst out from the turtle shell. The Green Lotus Sword Shadows and sword energies that Philip slashed on it earlier now rebounded on Philip. Moreover, the power was actually twice as powerful as Philip's attacks just now!

Philip frowned and quickly retreated. At the same time, he shouted angrily. A layer of chimera armor quickly formed on his body, and a giant chimera appeared behind him in an instant!

The eyes of the giant chimera blazed. Seeing the black turtle shell, it exploded with tremendous energy pressure and aura. Even Philip felt that he could not control the fire attribute power in his body at that moment.

This power seemed as if it wanted to break free from his body and fight the turtle shell. Fortunately, Philip tried his best to suppress it and calmed the raging giant chimera.

The giant chimera roared and spewed flames from its mouth. Its fists blocked in front of its chest and formed a chimera shield on its arms. The Green Lotus Sword Shadows bombarded the chimera shield like a storm!

Thud, thud, thud!

Philip was jolted by this attack and took several steps back before he stopped himself.

Powerful!

The turtle shell in this old man's hand was the real deal! It was so powerful!

A realization also flashed in Philip's mind.

The rage of the chimera giant just now must be related to this turtle shell.

Could this turtle shell be another extraterrestrial royal beast on the other shore?

As Philip pondered, the old man held the turtle shell and slammed it at him!

The First Heir - Chapter 3037 -
"Go to hell!"

The old man infused the turtle shell in his hand with the energy and the power of rules in his body, which produced a black light.

In an instant, a huge black turtle shadow appeared behind the old man. The shadow was huge and charged at Philip with tremendous force.

Philip frowned and raised his hand, and the giant chimera threw a punch!

Boom!

The huge flaming fist of the giant chimera slammed heavily on the turtle shell that was smacked out by the old man.

Buzz!

The collision produced a terrifying energy fluctuation. This energy rippled outward like waves in all directions. All the houses nearby collapsed.

Fortunately, this was a planned demolition area, and all residents had moved away. Otherwise, it would be a big problem.

The two quickly broke apart. The old man held the turtle shell in his hand, looked at Philip coldly, and said, "Young man, stop struggling. You're not qualified to intervene in the affairs of the Heavenly Court. I advise you to hand over the girl behind you!"

Philip snorted coldly and said, "I didn't want to intervene at first, but you people in Heavenly Court are pissing me off!"

"Hmph!" The old man bellowed, "You're asking for it! I've been in the secular world and the disciple world for decades and have never been defeated! Today, I shall take a little guy in the middle stage of the seventh zone like you for a ride!"

After saying that, the old man once again slammed the turtle shell at Philip. This time, a black light burst from the shell, and it became even more vigorous and intense as if it was alive!

Philip's eyes froze, and he retreated quickly. At the same time, a chimera sword appeared in his hand. The giant chimera behind him also held a flaming chimera sword, which slashed at the old man's turtle shell.

One was a chimera sword dozens of meters long, while the other was a turtle shell half the size of a human. However, when the chimera sword slashed on the turtle shell, bright red light and a layer of black light exploded!

Boom!

Strong defensive power burst from the turtle shell and sent the giant chimera and Philip flying.

"Oh no!" The girl hiding in the distance saw Philip being knocked back by the blow and exclaimed in panic.

The little creature in her arms struggled violently and jumped out of the girl's arms. It quickly ran to Philip, jumped on his shoulder, and roared to the sky. Suddenly, a layer of black energy vortex burst from the creature's body, which swirled over Philip's body and formed a black Beelzebub armor!

Similarly, the black armor also formed on the giant chimera, making it look like a scary demon lord.

When the old man saw this scene, his eyes widened as he muttered, "It's Beelzebub Royal Armor!"

Then, the old man smashed the turtle shell at Philip again.

Philip clenched his fists and felt the power of the black armor that had formed over his body. He sensed the supreme defensive power in this armor.

Buzz!

Philip's eyes glowed red as he slashed at the turtle shell with his sword. This sword smashed the void with tremendous energy pressure and slashed at the old man with the turtle shell!

The First Heir - Chapter 3038 -

Faced with this forceful blow, the turtle shell dazzled brightly with a black light!

Boom!

A huge turtle appeared and roared loudly!

The huge chimera sword slashed at the turtle that morphed from the turtle shell and burst with terrifying energy fluctuations, which spread to the surroundings and shattered the space here. The surrounding houses collapsed in an instant and turned into ruins!

The old man with the turtle shell was also sent flying by this turbulent energy storm. The shell fell to the floor with a loud thump.

Seeing this, the old man roared and wanted to rush to the shell, but Philip saw the opportunity and cut him with a sword.

Puff!

The old man was cut in half and died instantly!

An old guy at the peak of the sixth zone resisted several attacks from the middle stage of someone from the seventh zone solely by relying on this turtle shell. This turtle shell was truly extraordinary!

Philip retracted his aura and stood on the spot. He stared at the turtle shell on the floor and slowly approached it.

At this moment, the little thing on his shoulder kept pointing at the turtle shell on the floor with five fingers that were webbed together. It gestured something and talked in Philip's ear.

Philip could not understand it. The girl hurried over and beckoned the creature to jump into her arms.

She explained, "Blackie said that this turtle shell is a good thing. It saw the same thing once in a dream, which made it very frightened, but Blackie got bigger later and scared the other thing away..."

Philip frowned at the girl's explanation and glanced at the little Beelzebub before turning his attention back to the turtle shell. He then picked up the turtle shell, which was very heavy as if weighing hundreds of pounds.

The patterns on the shell looked very ancient as if they had been passed down for thousands of years. Moreover, there were lines and symbols on the shell that Philip could not understand.

Next, Philip tried to infuse his energy and the power of rules in his body into the shell. A black light suddenly appeared. A huge turtle head appeared in front of Philip.

The turtle stared at Philip with its huge eyes as if trying to convey a message to Philip through time and space. However, Philip could not hear clearly. He only felt that this beast from ancient times had something important to tell him.

At this moment, Emperor Kai's Token that Philip carried with him suddenly glowed brightly and shrouded Philip and the turtle shadow!

The girl and the Beelzebub were sent flying a dozen meters away.

"Hey, what's going on?"

Outside the light barrier, the girl kept hitting the barrier formed by Emperor Kai's Token.

At this moment, when he was inside the barrier, Philip was finally able to see the true appearance of the huge turtle. Just one glance at the turtle made Philip feel endless admiration and reverence for it!

Royal aura!

The turtle exuded royal power!

The First Heir - Chapter 3039 -

Philip looked up at the turtle, but it was looking at Emperor Kai's Token that was suspended in the air instead. It said in a weather-beaten voice, "I'm surprised to see the Human Emperor's Token left over from the Human Emperor's era after thousands of years..."

'Human Emperor's Token?' Philip was shocked and puzzled.

Was that not Emperor Kai's Token?

How did it become the Human Emperor's Token instead?

Then, the shadow of the huge turtle slowly lowered its head and glanced at the tiny human being in front of it.

It exhaled noisily and said, "Are you the boy chosen by the Human Emperor?"

Philip did not understand, but he still bowed and said, "I'm sorry, I don't know how to address you, but I don't know this Human Emperor whom you're referring to..."

Huff!

The huge turtle exhaled again, stared at Philip for a long time, and said, "My name is Shinho. I don't belong to the same era as you, so it's not surprising if you don't know me. I used to be the emperor of the earth. I guarded the earth for thousands of years."

At this point, the turtle seemed lost in nostalgia.

After a long while, it continued, "I sensed the Human Emperor in you, but you don't seem to be the Human Emperor. I can't see through your secrets, but I know that you're involved in a huge scheme. Since the Human Emperor has passed this token to you, it shows that you're his chosen successor. Boy, make good use of this Human Emperor's Token in your hand. We shall meet again."

After saying this, the shadow of the huge turtle became dim.

Philip was full of questions and asked, "What Human Emperor? Who's the Human Emperor? How did I become his successor? Please tell me!"

Before the shadow of the turtle dimmed completely, it said, "This world is incomplete, and this civilization has several gaps. If you want answers, you must enter the stargate and head to the other shore where you can find the answers to everything you want to know."

With that said, the shadow disappeared.

Emperor Kai's Token, which was suspended in the air, also lost its luster and landed in Philip's hands again.

"Are you alright?" the girl rushed over anxiously.

Philip looked at Emperor Kai's Token in his hand and fell into contemplation.

'What did the turtle mean?'

"Hey, hello?" The girl kept calling out but Philip did not hear.

“Oh no, he must be under a spell. Blackie, what should we do?” the girl asked the creature in her arms.

Blackie immediately made a gesture of swiping across its neck.

The girl was startled, shook her head repeatedly, and said, “No way. He just saved us. We can’t kill him!”

Blackie shrugged and mimed being tied up.

Seeing this, the girl shook her head and said, “No, he’s our savior!”

Blackie looked miffed and grumbled.

“What is it saying?”

“Oh, it’s saying that since we can’t kill you or tie you up, we should just cook you in a pot,” the girl replied almost instantly.

However, she came back to her senses immediately and cried out in surprise, “Y-You...”

Philip rewarded the girl and the little Beelzebub with two knocks on the head before saying, “I have questions for you. Come with me!”

The First Heir - Chapter 3040 -

The girl stomped her feet, pouted, and followed Philip out of this place. Soon, Philip returned to First Palace with the girl and the turtle shell.

When the girl saw Philip’s luxurious house, she kept running around the villa in awe.

Martha scowled when she saw Philip returning with a young girl of 17 or 18 years old but dared not say anything.

Philip was still such a playboy, flirting with a young girl.

What did he take Wynn for? Speaking of which, where was Wynn?

“Philip, why isn’t Wynn back with you? She has been away for a while. Where did she go?” Martha walked over with tea and asked with a smile.

“Aunt, thanks,” the girl said sweetly.

Philip frowned, thought about it, and explained, "Wynn timer dealing with something and won't be back so soon."

Hearing this, Martha pursed her lips, turned around, and left.

Philip glanced at the girl who was sitting on the sofa with her two legs dangling. The Beelzebub lay quietly beside her as if it was tired.

"Tell me who you are and what's going on with this little Beelzebub. Why is the Heavenly Court after you?" Philip asked coldly.

The girl rolled her eyes and said, "Big Brother, I'm not a bad person. I'm the guardian maiden, and I come from the stargate. The grandfathers told me that my duty is to guard the stargate. Blackie was raised in the stargate and ran away with me. The Heavenly Court wants to capture Blackie for research. I'm telling the truth."

Seeing the sincerity in the girl's eyes, Philip frowned and asked, "You said you're a guardian of the stargate?"

The girl nodded vigorously and said, "This is the duty of the guardian maiden. Each guardian maiden must guard the stargate for five years. Due to our special constitution, we have a natural affinity to the stargate and can know what happens inside the stargate. Moreover, our physique can greatly suppress the stargate, but..."

At this point, the girl's face dimmed as she said with tears in her eyes, "The stargate is too powerful and will exhaust the guardian maiden's special physique. In the end, every guardian maiden will die due to the loss of physical functions. So, I want to take advantage of the present and come out to look at the world."

The girl smiled excitedly and said, "I saw a lot of interesting things along the way as well as many interesting people."

Seeing the girl's changing moods between sadness and excitement, Philip fell silent.

A young girl in her late teens had to take on the important task of guarding the stargate, which would eventually lead to her demise.

Philip sighed helplessly. Maybe he had more reasons to go to Cochly Mountain to seek answers now. Then, he looked at Blackie and said, "Are you sure that it's a Beelzebub from the other shore?"

The girl nodded and said, "Yes, Blackie is very kind, and we've been raising it. It helps us guard the stargate too."

However, Philip scowled and said, "If I remember correctly, Beelzebub is a beast from the other side. They almost destroyed the foundation and civilization of our human race. Why are you raising such a beast?"

The girl had expected that Philip would say this and said, "You've misunderstood. Blackie didn't do those things. It's different from those Beelzebubs. It's very kind and has always been with me. Please don't hurt it."

The girl's eyes were full of tears. Blackie also sensed something and suddenly sat up. It stared at Philip with a pair of black eyes and growled.

Philip stared at Blackie's black eyes, and his face darkened. After looking at it for a long time, he said, "It shouldn't appear in the secular world. You'll only cause more trouble by bringing it out, so I must send you back to Cochly Mountain as soon as possible. I need to go there as well, so you can go with me."

Hearing this, the girl's face darkened as she asked, "Do I have to go back? I still want to explore the outside world."

The First Heir - Chapter 3041 -

Hearing the girl's remark, Philip's heart softened.

She was only in her late teens. Maybe her only time remaining was the so-called five years.

"I can accompany you to have fun in Riverdale, but you must follow me back to Cochly Mountain. Otherwise, you may leave now."

Philip did not want to invite trouble either.

The guardian maiden had run away from the stargate, so those people from the stargate and Cochly Mountain would definitely come after her.

"Okay!" The girl was full of excitement and anticipation, her eyes twinkling.

Back to Cochly Mountain. A fierce battle was still going on in the snow-capped mountain range. Dozens of fighter planes attacked several times, but the huge spaceship hidden in the snow-capped mountains could still put up a fight.

Commander Greene was already at the scene and personally directed the battle.

Hundreds of disciples training in Cochly Mountain rushed to the top of the snow-capped mountains and fought with the spaceship. The sky was full of flames and all kinds of attribute attack methods.

The battle lasted for several hours before it came to an end.

A man in a black robe was ejected from the spaceship and fell into the nearby snow-capped mountains. He stood up from the white snow and glanced at the damaged spaceship, the fighter planes in the sky, and the dozens of disciples. A chill flashed on the mechanical face!

“This is my gift to you. Please accept it,” the man in a black robe said in a cold mechanical voice, turned around, and walked away into the vast snow-capped mountains.

Soon, teams of Cochly Mountain guards placed the entire area on lockdown.

Commander Greene and the others came to the huge spaceship and looked up. He sighed and said, “Is this the product of extraterrestrial civilization? It’s a spaceship that spans eras and civilizations.”

Commander Greene could tell at a glance that the spaceship in front of him could not be created with the current civilization on earth. Moreover, there was a mark from the other shore on this spaceship. In other words, this spaceship came from the other shore!

“Arrange some manpower to study it on the spot!” Commander Greene ordered.

At this moment, a guard rushed over and said, “Commander Greene, Consul Berry of the Nonagon has arrived. He wants us to stop all actions. He wants to take this spaceship...”

Hearing this, Commander Greene frowned and said coldly, “He’s here fast enough. Tell him that no one can take the spaceship away. If he wants to study it, he can bring his people here.”

“Yes, sir!” the guard replied.

However, before long, a group arrived at the foot of this snowy mountain in a jeep.

Cooper Berry jumped out of the car and looked up at the mountain peak. When he saw the huge spaceship, his eyes were full of frenzy.

This was something he had been dreaming of!

A product of the other Shore’s civilization!

Cooper's eyes were full of frenzy as he walked toward the snow-capped mountain with a team of personal guards. Soon, Cooper arrived, and Commander Greene greeted him with a smile, "Consul Berry, you're here so quickly."

Cooper glanced at Owen Greene and said, "Commander Greene, it's been a while. You've done well in managing Cochly Mountain in such an orderly manner."

Owen laughed and asked, "Why are you here, Consul Berry?"

"For this thing, of course."

Cooper looked at the spaceship that went beyond the technological civilization in front of him, and his face was full of excitement.

Walking closer, he stretched out his hand and touched it. The cold touch, the technological power, and the civilization system were an existence that haunted Cooper's dreams endlessly.

Today, he finally found it!

"Commander Greene, I'm going to take this spacecraft back to the Nonagon for research. Please send a team to escort it," Cooper said.

However, Owen frowned and said, "Consul Berry, I'm sorry to disappoint you. The Nonagon is welcome to study this spacecraft, but it can only be done here while guarded by my people. Otherwise, you may take your leave."

Hearing this, Cooper frowned as a chill flashed in the corners of his eyes. He shouted, "Owen Greene, what do you mean? Do you want to stop the Nonagon?"

Owen snorted and said, "That's not the case, but this spacecraft is of great importance and I can't make the decision. For now, it can only remain here. If you're unhappy with my decision, you can go to the stargate and discuss it with the five marquises."

Hearing the five marquises being mentioned, Cooper's expression changed.

He suffered a loss in the hands of the five marquises back then. If he messed with them again, the outcome would be disastrous.

"Owen, don't threaten me with the five marquises. I'm the Nonagon's consul and have the right to deal with things that don't belong to this era of civilization. I now order you to hand over the spacecraft to the Nonagon!"

Cooper was angry. After all, this spaceship was his dream, and he must use it to study the civilization and technological power of the other shore.

Owen shook his head and said, "Consul Berry, I have no right to change the decision of the stargate. I have orders from the five marquises."

"You!" Cooper was furious, and the guards behind him immediately pulled their guns out.

The guards on Owen's side also drew their guns, and both parties confronted each other in this snowy land.

After a long while, Owen laughed and said, "Consul Berry, don't waste your effort. After all, this is Cochly Mountain, not the Nonagon. Although we have business dealings with each other, Cochly Mountain still has the final say in certain things. I hope you don't cross the line."

"Very well! Owen Greene, remember what you said just now!" Cooper said coldly.

At this moment, a team of guards in golden armor arrived amid the snow in a golden jeep. This team of golden armored guards went through the snow to the top of the mountain and appeared in front of everyone.

The man in the lead wore golden armor and had snow on his shoulders and helmet.

He took out a token and said to Owen, "Commander Greene, the Imperial Preceptor has given the order for us to bring the product of the other shore back to the Imperial Palace at once without any delay! Anyone who stands in our way shall be killed without mercy!"

When Owen saw this team of golden armored guards, he realized something. As he saw the imperial token in the other party's hand, he understood everything immediately.

His face changed slightly as he thought about it. Then, he said to the golden armor guard in the lead, "My lord, I need to inform the five marquises about this. I can only take action upon their approval."

The leading guard frowned and said, "Get in touch with them quickly."

Upon receiving the command, Owen turned around and took the satellite phone from his guard. He quickly got in touch with the five marquises.

At this moment, the five marquises were still on guard nearby the stargate.

"Oh, there's a call from Owen," Marquis Fulmore frowned, took out the phone from his pocket, and connected the call.

“Marquis Fulmore, the Imperial Preceptor has orders to bring the spacecraft back to the Imperial Palace,” Owen said.

Marquis Fulmore frowned and said, “Since the order has been given, you should act accordingly. Are the people from the Nonagon also here?”

“Yes, Marquis Fulmore. Consul Berry is here in person, but I turned him down,” Owen replied.

“Well, that’s fine, then,” Marquis Fulmore said and ended the call.

The other four marquises looked at Marquis Fulmore and asked, “What does the Imperial Preceptor mean?”

Marquis Fulmore put his hands behind his back, looked at the ancient stargate in the distance, and said, “I think the Imperial Preceptor is gearing up for his move, so we should start preparing too.”

The four marquises looked at each other and said with a nod, “Let’s begin, then.”

On this side, Owen approached the golden armor guard and said, “The five marquises have agreed.”

The golden armored guard nodded, turned around, and left.

Seeing this scene, Cooper was furious. He never expected the Imperial Preceptor to be interested in this too.

Could he put up a fight against the Imperial Preceptor? Of course not!

Thus, Cooper flung his arms in anger, turned around, and left.

Back in the car, Cooper looked at the team of golden armored guards intently and said, “Contact some people to intercept them halfway. I must get hold of the product from the other shore at all costs!”

“Consul Berry, are you sure you want to do this? That’s an order from the Imperial Preceptor,” his personal guard asked solemnly.

Cooper said coldly, “Out on this snowy land, who’ll know I’m the one behind it? Just make sure to hide your trail. As long as we get hold of that thing, it doesn’t matter if all those death warriors are killed!”

“Yes, Consul!”

Soon, the golden armor guards and the special guards of Cochly Mountain escorted the huge spaceship through the snow-capped mountains to the Imperial Palace. However, halfway through, an incident happened and a fierce battle broke out!

Meanwhile, in the Imperial Palace, the Imperial Preceptor was furious.

“Have you found out who did it?” the Imperial Preceptor asked coldly and angrily.

A guard in golden armor said on his knees, “We’re still checking, but we only managed to capture some death warriors with no useful information.”

The Imperial Preceptor frowned, stood with his hands behind his back, and said with a cold laugh, “Very good! In my territory, someone dares to intercept something that I want. Well done!”

“Deploy 3,000 Golden Battalion at once and surround the Nonagon!” the Imperial Preceptor shouted angrily.

There was no need to investigate at all. The Imperial Preceptor knew exactly who was behind this.

“Imperial Preceptor, we mustn’t. We have no evidence right now. Doing this will be detrimental to the overall situation.” A man in a suit walked out from behind him.

Hearing this, the Imperial Preceptor frowned and said coldly, “The Nonagon is getting out of hand. I need to set an example. There’s no discussion in this matter!”

The First Heir - Chapter 3044 -

The middle-aged man behind the Imperial Preceptor shook his head helplessly and sighed.

Once the Imperial Preceptor had decided, no one could change his mind.

“I’ll make the arrangements, then,” the middle-aged man said and left the Imperial Palace.

The Imperial Preceptor stood in the hall with a biting chill reflected in his eyes. After a while, he suddenly turned to the entrance of the main hall and said with a smile, “After so many years, this is your first time visiting my Imperial Palace.”

An old man with his hands behind his back walked into the hall.

“Imperial Preceptor, it’s been a long time…”

It was an elderly voice that contained the rules of lightning.

“Roger Clarke, there’s no need to stand on ceremony,” The Imperial Preceptor smiled and stood on the spot with his hands behind his back, looking at the old man approaching.

The Imperial Preceptor was full of emotions as he looked at this legendary figure. He was both a friend and a rival. Friends on duty and rivals on a personal level.

Roger stopped, looked up at the skylight, and said, “You still like to study this.”

The Imperial Preceptor said, “A prediction is an evolution of the rules of the world and our cognition.”

Roger nodded without retort and said, “In that case, you should have predicted that variable.”

The Imperial Preceptor frowned and said, “That’s right…”

He looked up at the skylight and said, “The world is unpredictable. I thought the chess game had been decided, but to my surprise, some variables appeared out of nowhere. Many things are beyond our expectations and judgments. Looking at it, even your son has exceeded your expectations.”

Roger shook his head and said, “I’ve never set any expectations for him. His growth has always been within the rules of this world. How far he can grow is his destiny and also the destiny of this world.”

Hearing that, the Imperial Preceptor frowned and said, “But Benny Larson’s prediction isn’t like that. Philip isn’t within the five elements and isn’t a fixed component in this world. He doesn’t belong here. His destiny is the opposite of the rules of the world here. He may not be able to break through to that realm in his entire life.”

Roger said calmly, “The predictions that you and Benny have made aren’t wrong, but you have forgotten one thing, his mother. When Charlotte was around, she had predicted the same outcome you predicted now, so she left him with a lot of things. Philip’s destiny is no longer something you can predict at will. He doesn’t belong to this world, but he does belong to this world at the same time.”

Hearing this sentence, the Imperial Preceptor raised his eyebrows and asked, “What do you mean?”

“The Human Emperor…” Roger said this casually, but it made the Imperial Preceptor tremble!

“The Human Emperor?” the Imperial Preceptor repeated and said intently, “Are you saying that he has the destiny of the Human Emperor?”

Roger did not deny it and said, “There hasn’t been any sign of the Human Emperor for thousands of years. The last Human Emperor violated the rules of the world and eventually stood down. Since then, no Human Emperor has appeared again. Do you know why?”

The Imperial Preceptor shook his head in puzzlement.

Roger said, “It’s because of the stargate. It has affected the rules of this world and suppressed the destiny of the Human Emperor, causing him to never be born. Throughout the ages, many predecessors have pursued the Human Emperor and its path, but all ended in vain...”

The First Heir - Chapter 3045 -

“The God Creation Project is none other than a plan to seek the Human Emperor and also a plan to fight against the stargate and the land of the other shore... Maybe no one can imagine what God looks like and no one will believe it. However, God does exist...”

“If we look at the history of civilization, the development of this world, and the clues of an extraterrestrial civilization, how can we deny the existence of God?”

“The so-called God may be a prophet that surpasses our existence or a technological force that surpasses the civilization of this world. Anyway, it’s a formidable and terrifying existence.”

The Imperial Preceptor listened to Roger’s explanation with furrowed brows and asked, “So what are you trying to say?”

Roger said, “The Human Emperor’s destiny has been awakened, the God Creation Project will be reactivated, and strange movements will also happen to the stargate. Those existences on the other shore are keeping a close eye on this world...”

Hearing this, the Imperial Preceptor’s face turned cold, and he said, “The God Creation Project will be reactivated?”

Roger nodded and said, “One month later, we shall select the most talented people of this world, and we’ll reopen the stargate and escort them to the other shore for the God Creation Training...”

Hearing this, the Imperial Preceptor’s eyes darkened, and he said, “I’ve made preparations, but why so sudden?”

Roger raised his eyebrows, looked up at the starry sky through the skylight, and said, "Because the Clarke family's door has given a warning."

'The Clarke family's door?'

The Imperial Preceptor's face darkened, and he said, "It's too hasty. We still need to prepare."

Roger said, "That's why I'm here to see you. The world of disciples can be made public, to allow more people to choose whether to be an ordinary person or learn advanced abilities to prepare for this world."

"This..." The Imperial Preceptor fell into deep contemplation.

Roger turned to leave. Before he did, he said, "Your daughter who went missing back then has actually been living quite well. I've sent her to the Larson family. You should go and see her if you have time."

Boom!

This sentence exploded in the Imperial Preceptor's mind!

His daughter was still alive?!

Back then, the Imperial Preceptor led the eight supremes to fight against the enemies. They returned victoriously, but his daughter went missing by accident with no news of her wellbeing. This was the Imperial Preceptor's eternal pain.

"Guards, follow me to the Larson family!"

Three days later, Philip met up with the others and prepared to leave for Cochly Mountain.

When they saw the girl and the little creature, Fennel and the others were surprised. After learning about the background of the girl and the little creature, they looked at each other.

The girl was the guardian maiden, and her name was Janike.

"Philip, are you sure that's a Beelzebub?" Fennel asked doubtfully.

Philip frowned and said, "I'm not sure, but she said so. If we want to know, we have to go to Cochly Mountain to find out the truth."

Fennel nodded and said, "But you said that Wynn stopped you from going to Cochly Mountain and said that it's a conspiracy of the Lovelace family. Won't you fall into the trap if we go now?"

Philip sighed and said, "Even so, I have to go because I want to find Wynn. If the Lovelace family is really up to something, we can just act accordingly."

Fennel nodded and said, "That's all we can do for now."

After arranging everything, Philip and the others set off for Cochly Mountain. As they took a private jet, it was only five or six hours before they reached Cochly Mountain. However, the vast snow-capped mountains still invoked fear in their hearts.

Soon, they saw the legendary Cochly Mountain.
